DR. ERNEST DOUGLAS REACHES THE AGE OF 90

CELEBRATE IN LOS ANGELES

Organists Attend Dinner in Observance of Birthday and Take Part in Program in Honor of Beloved California Organist.

By WILLIAM RIPLEY DORR

The April meeting of the Los Angeles Chapter, A.G.O., took the form of a dinner in celebration of the ninetieth birthday of Dr. Ernest Douglas, beloved founder of the chapter. The dinner and program took place at Angelica Lutheran Church in Los Angeles, and drew a large attendance, which included many of Dr. Douglas' former choir boys from both St. Paul's Cathedral and St. Matthias' Church. One of the honored guests was the Rt. Rev. Robert B. Gooden, retired Episcopal bishop, who as headmaster of the Harvard School had engaged Dr. Douglas to instruct the boys in music and also had taken organ lessons from him. Other old-time members of the chapter were Edward B. Gowan, organist of Asbury Methodist Church for nearly fifty years, and Clarence Kellogg, organist of the Church of Our Saviour, San Gabriel. It was Dr. Douglas who arranged for the first Guild examinations in Los Angeles.

Stanley Williams, also one of the founders of the chapter, and long the highly respected representative of the Aeolian-Skinner Organ Company, was master of ceremonies. Mr. Williams has made a unique place for himself in the Western organ world. His wide acquaintance with organists everywhere, his gracious personality and kindly wit, his vast experience in the organ field and his facility as an informal speaker all combined to make him the ideal master of ceremonies. As Mr. Williams called upon those present to recall the early days of the chapter, the place of Dr. Douglas in the hearts of those who know him became indelibly clear to all present. His pioneering work in the cause of fine church and organ music, his devotion to the work of the Guild, the deep affection he engendered in the hearts of his choristers and the universal esteem in which he is held within and without the profession—these were all brought out in the tributes by his friends. Dr. Douglas spoke of the early days and displayed a memory which could well be the envy of many half his age. He also showed that there is nothing wrong with his wind supply as he extinguished the candles on the enormous birthday cake with a few well-directed puffs.

Following the dinner a well-planned program of organ and choir music was presented in the church auditorium. Dr. Carl Segerhammar, the pastor, read program notes preceding the choral numbers, which were sung by the choir of the church under the direction of Dr. Arthur William Wolf. Dr. Douglas' stature as a composer was well revealed by the organ numbers, Prelude and Allegro quasi Fantasia and the well-known Suite in B minor, which were given an excellent performance by Bob Mitchell, F.A.G.O., F.T.C.L., a former pupil and chorister of Dr. Douglas. The choir of about fifty mixed voices sang three groups of anthems and motets, the first from Renaissance and Elizabethan times, the second motets and chorales of the Lutheran Church and the third modern anthems. Dr. Wolf has developed a well-disciplined and cohesive choral unit responsive to his slightest wish. Paul Stroud, organist of the church, provided first-class accompaniments.

The dean, Dr. Laurence Petran, professor of music and organist of the University of California at Los Angeles, presided at the meeting and introduced Mr. Williams and many of the guests.

CATHARINE CROZIER TO PLAY FOR CHICAGO WOMEN ON MAY 3

Catharine Crozier, eminent American woman organist, will be presented in a recital May 3 at the First Methodist Church of Oak Park, under the auspices of the Chicago Club of Women Organists.

Miss Crozier was born in Oklahoma and began her musical career at the tender age of 6 as a violinist. Her first organ teacher was her own sister and her first organ position was in her father's church. She received her B.Mus. at the Eastman School of Music, where she studied under Harold Gleason and Joseph Bonnet. After postgraduate work at the same school she earned the highest award of the school, the artist's diploma. Since 1938 she has served on the faculty of the Eastman School of Music and has appeared as a recitalist throughout the United States and Canada.

It has been the policy of the Chicago Club of Women Organists to present an annual recital by an outstanding woman organist. The president of the club is Miss Grace E. Symons and the recital arrangements were made by the program chairman, Miss Clare Gronau.

KINGSTON, ONT., CHOIR WILL SING AT WESTMINSTER ABBEY

The choir of St. George's Cathedral, Kingston, Ont., and the organist, George N. Maybee, have been invited to sing daily services in Westminster Abbey from Aug. 10 to 29. This is the first time that a choir outside the British Isles will sing regular services in an English cathedral or collegiate church. During the time they are in England the choir of twenty-four boys and sixteen men will live at the Abbey as guests of the dean and chapter of Westminster.

Under the guidance of Mr. Maybee the choir has won recognition in many Canadian and American cities. Two years ago it sang a choral eucharist at the Cathedral of St. John the Divine in New York. The choir was organized shortly after the founding of St. George's Parish in 1791. Mr. Maybee has directed the group for twelve years. He is also director of the music department of Kingston Collegiate and Vocational Institute.

MARSHALL BIDWELL HEARD IN SPRING CONCERT SERIES

Dr. Marshall Bidwell was the featured performer in the spring series of five Tuesday evening concerts which began March 30 at Carnegie Music Hall in Pittsburgh. The concerts were sponsored by Carnegie Institute and there was an assisting group of musicians at each event. The Indiana State Teachers' College choir sang March 30 and the Taylor Allderdice High School a cappella choir was heard April 6. Other groups which appeared were the Steubenville High School a cappella choir, the Wilkinsburg Symphony Orchestra and the Canterbury Choir of Pittsburgh. The concerts were open to the public without charge.

AT ST. LUKE'S CHAPEL, Trinity Parish, New York, on Palm Sunday Pergolesi's "Stabat Mater" was sung with organ and string quartet accompaniment. Also on the program were four motets, by the following composers: Josquin, Van Berchem, John Blow and Joseph Goodman, sung a cappella. Clifford L. Clark, organist, directed the program.

GEORGE H. FAIRCLOUGH DIES IN HIS 85th YEAR

LONG CAREER IN MINNESOTA

Organist of the State University and for Forty-Two Years Served the Church of St. John the Evangelist in St. Paul.

George H. Fairclough, F.A.G.O., for more than half a century a nationally prominent organist and teacher, died March 27 in his eighty-fifth year. He was professor emeritus of organ at the University of Minnesota, from whose faculty he retired in 1937, and had been organist and choirmaster of the Church of St. John the Evangelist in St. Paul, Minn., for forty-two years when he retired in July, 1943. In recent years Mr. Fairclough had made his home in California. He died while a patient at a sanitarium in Saratoga, Cal. Funeral services were held March 29 in Redwood City, Cal.

Mr. Fairclough is survived by three sons—Gordon F. of Philadelphia, George H., Jr., of Faribault, Minn., and James E. of Redwood City, Cal.—and one daughter, Mrs. Harold E. Flemming of Winter Park, Fla., besides fifteen grandchildren and one great grandchild. Mrs. Fairclough died in November, 1946.

Mr. Fairclough was the teacher of a number of prominent organists, one of them the late Eric DeLamarter. He was the organizer in 1911 of the Minnesota Chapter of the American Guild of Organists.

Mr. Fairclough was born in 1869 in Hamilton, Ont., of English parents who left Liverpool in 1857. They were enthusiastic musical amateurs and were members of the Liverpool Choral Society, conducted by Sir Michael Costa. As a boy he sang in the choir of Christ Church Cathedral, of which his oldest brother, William, was organist. Later he was appointed organist of St. Mark's Church. In his eighteenth year Mr. Fairclough entered the University of Toronto and also became a student at the Toronto Conservatory of Music. After a period as organist of the Church of the Redeemer he was appointed organist and choirmaster of All Saints' Church. In 1891, when he was in his senior year at the university, he was offered the position of musical director of a women's college and organist and choir director of Zion Presbyterian Church in Brantford, Ont. He held these positions for two years before going to Europe for study. In Berlin he entered the Royal High School for Music, studying piano, organ and theoretical subjects.

On his return Mr. Fairclough went to Kalamazoo, Mich., to be organist and choirmaster of St. Luke's Episcopal Church, and was also on the faculty of Kalamazoo College. In 1900 he became organist and choirmaster of the Church of St. John the Evangelist, St. Paul. He was also organist and musical director of Zion Hebrew Temple for eighteen years, head of the piano, organ and theory department of Macalester College for twenty-five years and organist and professor of the organ at the University of Minnesota for twenty years, besides maintaining a studio in downtown St. Paul for private pupils. He was conductor of the St. Paul Choral Club, a chorus of 300 voices, for a number of years, giving the standard oratorios with symphony orchestra accompaniment and eminent soloists.

While organist of the University of Minnesota, Mr. Fairclough gave a weekly recital and was a pioneer in radio work, giving a recital over the university station WLB every week for ten years. He was active also as a composer, having had a number of his compositions published, including pieces for piano, organ and voice. Compositions for the Episcopal service included a Communion Service in A flat, Benedicite in G, Te Deum and Jubilate in A, several anthems and hymn-tunes.

Mr. Fairclough married Helen Maude Freeman of Grand Rapids, Mich., Sept. 22, 1897. The wedding took place in St. Mark's Cathedral of that city. Mr. and Mrs. Fairclough had five children—Gordon, who was in France for two years with the 151st Field Artillery during world war No. 1; George, Helen, wife of Dr. Barnett of San Francisco; Edith, who is Mrs. Harold Flemming, and James, a bank officer in California. Mrs. Fairclough died several years ago.

FREDERICK C. MAYER, DEAN OF COLUMBUS SCHOOL, DIES

Frederick C. Mayer of Columbus, Ohio, dean of the Capital University Music Conservatory for twenty-nine years and organist-choirmaster of the Wilson Avenue Evangelical and Reformed Church, died March 30 at the age of 69 years. Mr. Mayer was born Jan. 1, 1885, in Fort Wayne, Ind., and was educated at the Woodville Normal College and the Michigan Conservatory of Music. He studied organ with Clarence Eddy in Chicago and with G. Stewart Cash in Toledo. Mr. Mayer had taught in Lutheran schools for fifty years.

Mr. Mayer played more than seventy-five organ recitals in seven states. He served churches in Canton, Detroit, Dayton and Toledo, Ohio, and for ten years was director of music at the Woodville Normal College. When that college merged with Capital University in 1924 Mr. Mayer was appointed dean of the conservatory of music. His appointment at the Wilson Avenue Church came in 1933. Between 1915 and 1924 the Wartburg Press of Columbus published numerous Christmas services and children's programs compiled by Mr. Mayer and containing some of his original compositions. Mr. Mayer held the associate certificate of the American Guild of Organists and was a past dean of the Central Ohio Chapter.

Mr. Mayer married Elizabeth A. Patzer in 1907. He is survived by the widow and four children—Fred C., Theodore H., Kathryn F. and Beth. Fred C. Mayer is head of the music department at Friends University.

A fund to purchase a practice organ for Capital University has been established in memory of Mr. Mayer. Persons wishing to make contributions may send them to the Dean Mayer Memorial Fund, Capital University Conservatory of Music, Columbus 9, Ohio.

WILLIAM D. BELKNAP DIES;

AT CHICAGO POST 50 YEARS

William D. Belknap, who for nearly fifty years was organist of the Fourth Church of Christ, Scientist, in Chicago, died April 18 at the age of 82 years. For some time Mr. Belknap had been a patient at the Bellevue Sanitarium in Round Lake, Ill.

Mr. Belknap was a pupil of Clarence Eddy and had studied abroad. For many years he was considered one of the most accomplished organists in Chicago. He was a charter member of the Illinois Chapter of the A.G.O. Mr. Belknap began playing for the Fourth Science congregation before they had erected an edifice. He was one of the oldest readers of THE DIAPASON, having first subscribed to the magazine in 1910.

UNIVERSITY OF WISCONSIN

TO PLACE ORGAN IN KITCHEN

The University of Wisconsin School of Music soon will acquire a new organ with the distinction of being the first in the world to be installed in a kitchen. Dr. S. T. Burns, chairman of the school, has approved the contract with the Wicks Organ Company of Highland, Ill.

"We have so many organ pupils this semester that we have had to assign some students a 6 a.m. practice hour," Professor Paul G. Jones explains. Professor Jones and Professor Irene Eastman teach twenty-four organ students in addition to their other duties.

The Wicks Company is building the organ to go into room 5 of the music annex, the old Kappa Kappa Gamma sorority house, where the overflow from music hall has been housed.

"The console of the organ will go into the old kitchen of the building and the pipes will be installed in the rebuilt pantry," Professor Jones explains. The instrument will have five ranks, and a total of 421 pipes.

GERMANI PLAYS IN LONDON
AND UNDER AUSPICES OF ROME

Fernando Germani, whose next American tour has been announced for October and November, gave the first recital of the new organ series at the Royal Festival Hall in London April 13, playing a Bach program. In the last month he has performed the complete organ works of Bach in a series of recitals under the auspices of the City of Rome, presented in one of the oldest churches of Rome—St. Maria in Ara Coeli. Mr. Germani writes that this is one of the most fascinating spots in Rome, situated high on top of Capitoline Hill, commanding a view of the entire city.

Mr. Germani, who has not toured this country since the fall of 1951, will arrive in New York Sept. 28 and will tour the East and eastern Canada during the first part of October. He will be available in the Middle West and South the second part of October and early November, reaching Texas by the middle of November. During the second part of November he will be available on the Pacific coast, including the Northwest, returning east for the first part of December. The Colbert-LaBerge Concert Management, Mr. Germani's managers, are making arrangements for his tour.

"... an enlightening introductory lecture on the organ is 'The American Classic Organ'. G. Donald Harrison, President of The Aeolian-Skinner Organ Company, is the articulate narrator, and his talk, well illustrated with tonal samplings, discusses such different organ tones as principals, flutes, strings and reeds. . . . The organ that sounds most thrilling is that of the Cathedral of Saint John the Divine of this city."

THE NEW YORK TIMES

"... G. Donald Harrison is an alumnus of 'Father' Willis in England, builder of many noted organs. Harrison has adopted the United States, and in the Thirties he began waging a war against the vague-toned 'romantic' organs. . . . His newer instruments possess a glory that is a joy to the ear. . . . Harrison and his associates put together a record they call 'The King of Instruments'. . . . We played it several times for various guests, all of whom we honestly report, found it more than interesting. To sum it up, various types of organ tone are demonstrated, and the possible combinations illustrated again—both on Harrison's 'American Classic' organ and on a 'romantic' organ. Those who are too far from New York City to hear the Cathedral's State Trumpet, whose pipes lie on their sides, will hear it in this record."

THE SATURDAY REVIEW

"... a superb object-lesson in how to play organ music most beautifully. At the moment I cannot recall any disk with as much unadulterated musical organ beauty as fills this one. . . . The second side opens with the new reeds in the St. John Cathedral, New York City, and if that is not a masterpiece of recording I never heard one. I found this recorded example thrilling. . . . This is one of the most valuable recordings in the world for all organists and organ builders, especially those who have tried to copy Mr. Harrison's work without the essential foundation of competence. . . . The disk, both sides, plays 42 minutes and you'll thrill to all 42 of them; you'll also hear an honest 32' tone on the record."

THE AMERICAN ORGANIST

"Care has been exercised in endeavoring to capture the various tones of the organ in as realistic a manner as possible, and the engineers have succeeded in achieving faithful reproduction. . . . The chorus reeds are impressive and brilliant, especially the 'State Trumpet', and the solo reed colors come through with a life-like warmth. As one would expect, Mr. Harrison's discussion of mutations and mixtures is lucid and informative, with examples which aptly illustrate the use and value of these important components. We would venture to say that anyone wishing to establish a collection of organ recordings should list this record as one of his first purchases."

ALFRED GREENFIELD

AN OUTSTANDING EVENT of this year's American Guild of Organists convention will be the uncut performance of Handel's "Messiah" conducted by Alfred Greenfield. Heard for the first time outside New York City in its "original continuity", the "Messiah" will be performed Tuesday evening, July 13, in the St. Paul Auditorium by a chorus of 250 selected voices and members of the Minneapolis Symphony Orchestra.

Mr. Greenfield, a native son of St. Paul, first introduced the now-famous uncut version of the "Messiah" as conductor of the Oratorio Society of New York in Carnegie Hall in 1947. As conductor of the society since 1943 he directed the group in its 130th annual performance of the "Messiah" in Carnegie Hall last December.

As assistant organist in the Church of St. John the Evangelist under George H. Fairclough, Mr. Greenfield first became interested in the study of the oratorio. It is interesting to note that Mr. Fairclough, organist and choir director of St. John's for over forty years, said after Mr.

Greenfield's speech at the Guild's 1952 convention in San Francisco: "I've learned more about the 'Messiah' than I've known all my life."

Following his apprenticeship at St. John's, Mr. Greenfield became organist of the Virginia Avenue and First Church of Christ Churches in St. Paul. In 1922 he moved to New York City and began studying organ and choral music with Lynnwood Farnam at the Institute of Musical Art. He joined the music faculty of New York University on University Heights, where he is now chairman of the department of music at University College, and will soon celebrate his thirtieth anniversary as director of the New York University glee club.

Apart from his duties with the university and the Oratorio Society, Mr. Greenfield has engaged in many other musical activities. Every year he conducts the Oratorio Society in a performance of Bach's B minor Mass in Carnegie Hall and he has conducted the same work at the Bach festival in Winter Park, Fla., has been guest conductor at the state choir festival in Bartlesville, Okla., the Kansas choir festival in Winfield and a three-day regional song festival in Lewisburg, Pa. In October of last year he was guest conductor of the Oklahoma Baptist church music youth festival in Shawnee, where he directed a program for a youth choir of 1,000 voices.

The performance of the "Messiah" to be heard in July in the twin cities is based on the score prepared by J. M. Cooper-smith of the Library of Congress after fifteen years of painstaking investigation of original sources.

VIRGIL FOX WILL CONDUCT MASTER CLASSES IN JUNE

Virgil Fox has announced that he will hold master classes June 21 to 25 at the Riverside Church in New York City. Those attending the classes this year will be among the first to hear and play the new organ at the church as the instrument will be in its final stages at that time. Richard Weagly, choirmaster at Riverside Church, will conduct daily classes in choral repertory for those who enroll in Mr. Fox's course.

AUSTIN

ADMITTEDLY the most reliable organ made, AUSTIN consoles and chests continue to perform dependably years after the usual organ's life span.

To this undisputed mechanical supremacy is being added a name for tonal eminence that is winning the choicest trade of today.

Diapason chorus work, chorus Reeds, Mutations, system of ensembles, magnificence of full organ—are distinctive,— but—the charm of modern AUSTIN is its color, balance and blend, and consequent facility and felicity of registration.

"RARE TONES FROM NEW ORGAN GIVE RECITAL CLASSIC QUALITY"

"An instrument obviously to the taste of the large audience . . . Every stop had the rare characteristic of being well-defined throughout its whole register . . . All stops had a marvelous, almost touchable, speaking quality . . . The liveliness and the rhythmic capabilities of the new organ were a delight . . . The deft Hindemith Sonata showed that the new instrument is just as effective with modern music as that of the 18th century.

Personal Memories of Louis Vierne, One of Great Paris Group

By PROFESSOR A. M. HENDERSON

It was during the summer of 1908 that I first met Vierne. From May to October of that year I was studying piano with Pugno and staying at his beautiful country house, "La Maison Blanche," at Gargenville, a village on the Seine, about an hour's journey from Paris. On Sunday afternoons the Pugnos were always "at home" to their friends and these afternoons were the holidays in my spell of study. They were particularly memorable, for it was then I first met some of the most distinguished of French musicians: Saint-Saëns, Dubois, Fauré, Gigout, d'Indy and Widor. With some of them I was later to become much more intimately associated. Saint-Saëns was a wonderfully interesting, amusing and well-informed conversationalist; Fauré, by contrast, was quiet and retiring; Dubois and Gigout represented a very gracious type of French courtesy; Widor, distinguished and commanding, was a musician of exceptionally wide culture.

Vierne was spending a week of his holiday that summer at Gargenville and, coming over one afternoon to visit the Pugnos, I had the happiness of meeting him and having a long talk with him in the garden. While already rather blind, he could still see objects, especially in the open air, and could even read a little if he held the book close to his eyes.

We soon found that we had many friends and interests in common; among the younger friends were Marcel Dupré, already acting as assistant to Widor at St. Sulpice, and Nadia Boulanger, who had recently won the second Grand Prix de Rome, and her wonderfully gifted younger sister Lili (who later won the Premier Grand Prix de Rome). They were also spending the summer at Gargenville. Vierne was very interested to hear about the fine four-manual Lewis organ in the Bute Hall of Glasgow University (our beautiful Memorial Chapel was not then built), and asked if on my return home I would send him an exact specification in the form of a drawing, giving the position of the drawstops. Vierne kindly reciprocated by inviting me to hear the magnificent Cavaille-Coll organ at Notre Dame Cathedral and asking me, if possible, to come and hear it in the service. Accordingly I was there on the following Sunday and on a number of other Sundays during that summer, and on many other occasions in later years, for our friendship continued during the remaining twenty-nine years of his life.

Born at Poitiers in 1870, Vierne had his first music lessons with Adolphe Marty at the Paris College for the Blind. Later the studies were continued at the Conservatoire with César Franck and after Franck's death in 1890 with Widor and Guilmant. In 1900 he was appointed organist at Notre Dame, where he held office for thirty-seven years, maintaining ever the high standard of organ playing set by his three great masters.

As is well-known, in all the large French cathedrals and churches, there are two organs: the grande orgue, placed at the west end (on which are played prelude, interlude, offertory and sortie) and the small choir organ at the east end, near the altar, for the accompaniment of the service. To reach the organ tribune or gallery of the grande orgue at Notre Dame meant a long climb, but having reached it the visitor is surprised to find it so spacious, capable on festival occasions of accommodating both orchestra and choir. At this west end of the cathedral the organ, one of the masterpieces of Cavaille-Coll, built up to reach the west windows, made a magnificent impression. The console, placed in the center of the tribune, looked east and gave a wonderful view of the whole building, of the altar and the choir. There one heard so clearly the small choir organ and the voices of the men and boys singing the liturgy for the day.

Vierne, quiet, serious, but friendly in manner, represented the artist of ideals, who lived and worked for his art. He was happiest in church, seated at the console of his beloved organ, where his visions of things beautiful found expression under his hands. In the service he played chiefly

Bach, César Franck, Widor and movements from his own works, or he improvised. In the art of improvisation he was a supreme master. In meeting the mood required for verset or interlude he revealed mastery of the first order. In the logical development of his themes and their fresh and original harmonizing he was unsurpassed. In this very personal and individual art he always said that he had been greatly helped and stimulated by the guidance of César Franck, while for his technical training he owed almost everything to the teaching of Widor and Guilmant.

During the absence of Guilmant on the last of his American tours Vierne took his place at the Conservatoire, where he showed himself a stimulating and inspiring teacher. Vierne kindly invited me to attend one of these class lessons and I have happy memories of his enthusiastic and spirited lesson giving.

As a player he was at his best at Notre Dame, where he was entirely at home with his own organ. Elsewhere, as on his visits to this country, he was evidently greatly handicapped by his blindness and did not feel free to reveal himself as the great artist he really was.

As is well-known, Vierne died at his post. The Société des Amis de l'Orgue had invited him to give a recital of his own compositions at Notre Dame on the evening of June 2, 1937. He had played the first part of the program, concluding with his last work, "Tryptique," Op. 58, then just published. Having played this group of pieces he suddenly fell forward unconscious and died a few minutes later. The end was the one he could have wished. He had often expressed the desire to die at his beloved organ and in the cathedral to which he had devoted the best part of his life and his art. As a composer for the organ his name will be kept alive with us for many years to come and especially by those who appreciate originality and freshness of utterance. The finest movements from his six symphonies may be beyond most organists, but there are many beautiful and very typical pieces from the "Twenty-four Pieces in Free Style," Op. 31 (in two books) and from the "Pieces de Fantaisie," Op. 51 (in four books) which can be played and enjoyed by organists of moderate attainments who are willing to work!

Franck, Widor, Guilmant and Vierne—these are great names in the history of French organ playing and French organ music, and I am happy to think that it was my privilege to enjoy the friendship of the last three in this great group.

DR. ARTHUR C. BECKER

DR. ARTHUR C. BECKER on April 5 observed his thirty-sixth anniversary as organist and choirmaster of the Catholic Church of St. Vincent de Paul. During that period the church has laid claim to a splendid choral organization used for the liturgical functions of the ecclesiastical year. In addition to his duties at the church, Dr. Becker has been dean of the school of music and head of the organ department of De Paul University for thirty-two years. During that time the music school has grown from a department of a few students to one of the outstanding university music schools in the Middle West.

Dr. Becker, in addition to his administrative duties as dean of the school of music, teaches classes in organ and choral conducting and is the director of the university a cappella choir, which is in constant demand at academic functions, public concerts, etc.

Dr. Becker is a vice-president and a member of the Commission on Curricula of the National Association of Schools of Music.

ORGAN BY MÖLLER FOR NEW SEMINARY IN NEW ORLEANS

The New Orleans Baptist Theological Seminary, New Orleans, La., is in the midst of a great building project. The seminary has been in existence for many years in downtown New Orleans, but is moving to a beautiful new location and is constructing all new buildings. In connection with the seminary there is a department of religious music, including an organ department. The director of the music is Dr. W. Plunkett Martin, and the head of the organ department is Miss Beatrice Collins.

M. P. Möller, Inc., has been awarded the contract for a three-manual organ for the new seminary. The specifications were prepared in consultation with Dr. Martin and Miss Collins for the seminary and W. E. Pilcher, Jr., and Emile Rive, Möller representatives. The resources of the organ will be as follows:

Sound is this man's Specialty

Most persons recognize only relatively broad differences between sounds. There are few who can accurately differentiate between any two notes a quarter tone apart. Such is the ordinary ear.

The craftsman shown below, however—one of Möller's expert voicers—is far from ordinary. His sense of hearing is so keen, he is able to distinguish many subtle nuances in any one sound. He voices newly-made reed pipes first to a standard, then in ensemble; carefully adjusting them, not only for proper timbre, but for responsiveness as well.

Specialists like this craftsman help make the Möller organ great. To prove it, you have only to hear and play a Möller!

If you should like information or advice on any phase of organ building, remodeling, operation, or maintenance—we shall be glad to help you! There is no obligation for this service—please do not hesitate to write.

The President's Column

The results of our 1954 national pre-convention expansion campaign are manifold, following the receipt at national headquarters of lists sent by a large number of chapter officers and committees, and others who are genuinely interested in this A.G.O. project. Many organists and choral directors who received the letters and informative material sent to those on the lists have applied for membership in the Guild and others for reinstatement. Members are requesting transfers to chapters more conveniently located and some of those living remote from any chapter are forming new chapters or branches (we now have nearly 250). The fifty-second Guild student group has just been formed. Now that such momentum has been attained please continue sending lists of church musicians to us and help promote A.G.O. expansion as a grand prelude to the twin cities 1954 convention.

It is a pleasure to report the organization of the following chapters and a branch: Winfield, Hutchinson and Wichita, Kan. (we now have six chapters in Kansas, of which Dr. Cora Conn Redic is state chairman, and a state convention is planned); Asheville, N. C.; Spartanburg, S. C.; Stamford, Conn. (Connecticut has seven chapters and one branch); Danville, Northern Virginia (Winchester) and Hopewell, Va. (formerly a branch) (Virginia has eight chapters); Johnstown, Pa. (thirteen chapters in Pennsylvania); Greenville, S. C.; Allegheny (Olean, N. Y.) (twenty chapters and one branch in New York); Yellowstone (Billings, Mont.); Lakeland Branch of the St. Petersburg, Fla., Chapter (ten chapters and two branches in Florida). (Mrs. Ann Ault, state chairman is planning a state convention); Klamath Falls, Ore., and Blennerhassett (Parkersburg, W. Va.); also new student groups as follows: College of the Pacific, Stockton, Cal.; Howard College, Birmingham, Ala.; Wesley Junior College, Dover, Del.; Meredith College, Raleigh, N. C., and Hastings, Neb., College.

All applications for the 1954 Guild examinations should be sent to headquarters at this time. Choirmaster examinations June 9; associatship and fellowship June 10 and 11.

Communications received from the chairman of the twin cities convention, Mrs. Mary Fellows, and the program chairman, Jack Fisher, indicate a national Guild event in keeping with A.G.O. traditions. Mrs. G. S. Stephens, chairman of convention publicity, announces:

Convention time is nearing and the program committee is still at work planning enticing details that will make the convention a must in your summer engagements. Those who attend will find that it is really "your convention," based on suggestions from various chapters throughout the country. The information and discussion sessions in professional matters, acoustics, organ design and problems relating to Guild examinations will be stimulating and inspiring. If you play a two or five-manual instrument, if your choir is small or large, whatever your organ or choir problem, you will be interested in the program schedule presented in this convention. Time out for fun has been planned. A relaxing and enjoyable event will be the A.G.O. "pop" concert night at the St. Paul Auditorium. The entire auditorium has been reserved for that occasion, and the orchestra will present an appropriate program. The president's breakfast to regional and state chairmen, deans and regents, on the final day of the convention, will precede a series of conferences with these officers of the A.G.O. which will continue through the morning. Plan a thrilling and restful vacation among the pines and lakes of Minnesota, along with professional enjoyment and inspiration at the convention. The place is the twin cities, the dates July 12-16. Start planning your trip now. Better send your registration and make that hotel reservation now. Don't miss the 1954 convention.

"All roads lead to the Twin Cities!"
S. LEWIS ELMER.

Prize Anthem Contest.

Under the auspices of the American Guild of Organists a prize of $150. has been offered by the H. W. Gray Company, Inc., to the composer of the best anthem for mixed voices submitted by any musician residing in the United States or Canada. The text, which must be in English, may be selected by the composer. There is no objection to seasonal anthems—Christmas, Easter, etc.

There is no restriction as to difficulty, but the composition should not exceed five or six minutes in length. If in the opinion of the judges the desired standard is not reached, the award may be withheld. The board of judges will be: Dr. Philip James, F.A.G.O., chairman; Paul Callaway, F.A.G.O., and Hugh A. Mackinnon, F.A.G.O. The anthem will be published by the H. W. Gray Company, on a royalty basis.

The manuscript, signed with a nom de plume or motto and with the same inscription on the outside of a sealed envelope containing the composer's name and address must be sent to the American Guild of Organists, 630 Fifth Avenue, New York 20, N. Y., not later than Jan. 1, 1955. Return postage must be enclosed.

New Chapter in Ohio Valley.

A new A.G.O. chapter has been organized in the Ohio Valley. Its members are organists and choir directors from Parkersburg, W. Va., and Marietta, Ohio. The initial meeting was held March 26 in the parish-house of the First Presbyterian Church, Parkersburg. Those present voted to name the chapter "Blennerhassett". The following officers were elected: Dean, Miss Marie Boette; sub-dean, William E. Waxler; secretary, Mrs. Kathleen Reel; treasurer, Mrs. Gilbert Moore. Plans were discussed for the first activity of the chapter—an all-Bach program Sunday, May 16.

LAKELAND, FLA., BRANCH—The first regular meeting of the newly-organized branch of the St. Petersburg Chapter was held April 4 at All Saints' Episcopal Church in Lakeland, Fla. The new officers are: Paul Goodman, regent; Miss Margaret McCain, co-regent; Miss Catherine Young, treasurer; Robert O. Parrett, secretary; the Rev. C. H. White, chaplain; Miss Margaret McCain, membership chairman; Mrs. Roscoe Skipper, program chairman. After the business meeting the group attended one in a series of recitals by Robert O. Parrett, organist-choir-master of All Saints'. His program included: Meditation in a Cathedral and "Prayer," Bossi; Chorales, "Lamb of God, Pure and Holy," "O Sacred Head Now Wounded" and "Holy God, We Praise Thy Name," Peters; "Suite Gothique," Boellmann.—ROBERT O. PARRETT, Secretary.

New Chapter in New York State.

Area organists and choir directors met Feb. 23 in the choir room of St. Stephen's Episcopal Church in Olean, N. Y., to make application for admittance into the American Guild of Organists. Meeting in the same church again on March 16, an announcement in the form of a letter from President Elmer informed the group that they had fulfilled the necessary requirements for chapter formation and that he and the national officers were happy to grant our charter. Thus the "Allegheny Chapter" is now a part of the national organization. It takes in Allegheny and Cattaraugus Counties in Southwestern New York and McKean County in Northern Pennsylvania. We have representation from Olean, Allegheny, Ellicottville, Wellsville and Salamanca, and from Bradford, with prospects of increasing our membership to about 100.

Permanent officers elected at the March meeting are: Dean, Edward B. Vreeland, Jr., Salamanca; sub-dean, Miss Harriet E. Lange, Olean; secretary-treasurer, Miss Grace Chandler, Olean; registrar-librarian and DIAPASON reporter, Philip F. Smith, Salamanca. The executive committee appointed by Dean Vreeland includes himself, Miss Lange and Miss Chandler, and the additional five charter members: Chester Klee, Olean; Mrs. Robert O'Donnell, Allegheny; Miss Violet Frazier, Ellicottville; William R. Davis, A.A.G.O., Bradford, and Mrs. Ida McKain, Bradford. Dean Vreeland is the organist of the First Congregational Church in Salamanca and is a banker, as is Miss Lange, who is organist and director at St. Stephen's Church in Olean, while Miss Chandler is organist and director and full-time minister's assistant at the First Presbyterian Church in the last-named city.

For the April meeting of the Allegheny Chapter we were to be privileged to hear an organ recital by Donald Ingram of Hindsdale, who is a senior at Syracuse University this year. Mr. Ingram, who is majoring in organ, is an artist pupil of Arthur Poister. He gave his graduation recital there March 28 and repeated it for our chapter April 20 on the large three-manual Austin organ in St. Stephen's Episcopal Church, Olean. The May meeting was tentatively scheduled for Bradford.

PHILIP F. SMITH, Correspondent.

Institute at Alfred University.

The Canacadea Chapter will again sponsor a church music institute at Alfred University, Alfred, N. Y., from July 18 to 23. It is with great pride that we announce Seth Bingham, national vice-president of the A.G.O., as chief lecturer. Assisting him will be Mrs. Madeline Ingram, assistant professor at Lynchburg College, Lynchburg, Va., who will lecture and demonstrate in her special field of children's choirs. John Huston of New York will return to the institute this year at the enthusiastic insistence of last year's members. Mr. Huston and Hans Vigeland of Buffalo are among the scheduled organ recitalists. An innovation this year will be a composers' clinic conducted by Mr. Bingham and an organists' clinic conducted by Mr. Huston. Early reservations will be appreciated for this outstanding institute. If you can't attend the Minneapolis meeting, come to Alfred!

The Canacadea Chapter has had several programs of interest this year. At the opening dinner meeting Hugo Winterhalter of Canisteo, N. Y., director of the choir of the First Methodist Church of Canisteo, gave a very interesting account of the trip he and Mrs. Winterhalter took last summer through some little-traveled parts of Europe, including his native Black Forest. "The Church Year in Song" was exemplified in a choir festival directed and accompanied by members of the chapter. An annual feature of this festival was the use of a speech choir reading appropriate Scripture passages as part of each seasonal group of anthems. A panel discussion of mutual problems followed the dinner meeting in March, to which each member invited his minister. The junior choir festival in May will conclude the regularly scheduled meetings of the chapter.

LOIS BOREN SCHOLES, Dean.

INDIANA CHAPTER—North Methodist Church in Indianapolis had the Indiana Chapter as guests March 9. Dinner was served before the program and in addition to a short business meeting there was time for a friendly social period at which Dean Mallory Bransford's birthday was celebrated. The organ and choral program was by Josephine Bailey, a former Indianapolis girl now in Annapolis, Md. She played the following selections: Toccata in G major, Walond; Flute Solo, Arne; Fantasia and Fugue in G minor, Bach; and as a second group, two compositions by Langlais: "Song of Peace" and Epilogue, on a theme by Frescobaldi for pedals alone, and "Ronde Francaise," Boellmann. The Howe High School choir, under the direction of Frank S. Watkins, with Sally Tinkle as accompanist, presented two groups of numbers from the balcony of the church. They sang: "Let Thy Holy Presence," Tchesnokoff; "Hallelujah, Amen," Handel; "Salvation is Created," Norden; "Ev'ry Time I Feel the Spirit," Dawson (John Heitz, soloist); "Send Forth Thy Spirit," Schuetky; "Alleluia," Randall Thompson; "Dark Water," Will James, and "Listen to the Lambs," Dett.—SUSAN SHEED HEMINGWAY, A.A.G.O.

WHITEWATER VALLEY CHAPTER—The April meeting of the Whitewater Chapter was held April 5 at the Central Christian Church in Connersville, Ind. Miss Loretta Heeb, chairman of the nominating committee, gave a slate of officers for 1954-1955. Lawrence Apgar, associate professor of music at Earlham College, introduced three of his students. Richard Butler, organist, played Bach's Fantasy in G major. Earl George, pianist, played "Theme with Variations" and "Melody," by Bartok, and "Romance," by Sibelius. Jim Kauper, organist, played the Prelude and Fugue in D major by Bach. Communion, by Tournemire, and French Rondo, Boellmann. The organists are members of the Guild student group of Earlham College. A social hour was held in the church parlor and refreshments were served by the committee composed of Mrs. David Herriek, Robert Grove and Marion Smith. The next meeting will be held in Richmond, Ind., at St. John's Lutheran Church. The annual Guild service will be featured under the direction of Leonard Holvik, professor of music at Earlham College, who will direct the combined adult choirs, Mrs. Marjorie Beck Lohman, minister of music at St. John's Lutheran Church, and Lawrence Apgar.—LORETTA M. HEEB, Registrar.

DECATUR, ILL. CHAPTER—The Decatur Chapter at its spring choral festival sponsored the eighty-five voice a cappella choir of the Second Presbyterian Church of Bloomington, Ill., Richard D. Hoffland director. The featured number was "The Apostle's Creed," by Robert P. Keener, formerly a member of the Decatur Chapter. Harold R. Martin, minister of the Bloomington church, spoke on "The Miracle of Youth." After the concert women of the Decatur Chapter, under the direction of Virginia Isome, served the choir and its friends a spaghetti supper.

Official Convention Hotel

The St. Paul Hotel has been chosen as convention headquarters for the A.G.O. national convention. Being centrally located and having commodious accommodations, it is well equipped to be host to a large convention. Busses will be available to transport the organists to various places in St. Paul and Minneapolis and to tour the beautiful lake area in and around the twin cities. Room rates at the St. Paul Hotel range as follows: Single, $5.50 to $8.50; double, $7.50 to $13; double with twin beds, $9 to $13. The Hotel Lowry in the adjoining block is also a high-grade hotel and moderately priced, with room rates ranging from $5 to $6 for single rooms and from $8.50 to $10.50 for double rooms. On the Hamline University campus the Manor House and Drew Hall dormitories will be available at $3 a day. Bus service will be furnished if a large enough group registers.

This will be the setting for a truly great convention, with a program which will warrant the enthusiasm which is growing among our members.

Be sure to bring your gown and hood to wear in the procession at the twilight Guild service in the Central Lutheran Church, Minneapolis. It is not necessary to have an A.G.O. gown—any academic gown may be worn.

Chapter in Hutchinson, Kan.

A new chapter was organized Jan. 10 at the First Presbyterian Church in Hutchinson, Kan. There are twenty-six members, representing six towns and ten denominations. Meetings are held on a Sunday afternoon every month with a display of organ music as one of the popular features. Officers are Nell B. Ghormley, dean; Virginia Hallman, sub-dean; Peggy McCreery, secretary-treasurer. Additional members of the executive committee are Pearl Klaver, Connie Thompson and Catherine Ballard.

NELL B. GHORMLEY, Dean.

DREW UNIVERSITY, MADISON, N. J., is sponsoring an all-day church music conference to be held at the university on Saturday, May 15. The conference, which is open to organists, choir directors, ministers, singers and all others interested in the promotion and study of church music, is under the direction of Lester W. Berenbrock, director of church music at Drew University. Other conference leaders include Charles Fisher, Alfred B. Haas, Russell Hayton, Mary Elizabeth Jenkins, Dorothy Lee, Dika Newlin and Ira Wheatley. The day's program will include a demonstration on the use of the hymnal as a source-book for the choir and the choir's interpretation of the hymnal for the congregation. A choral workshop in which rehearsal techniques will be demonstrated through the performance of standard and new choral works is another feature. A performance of Carissimi's oratorio "Jehothah" by the university's college choir and an organ recital by Edgar Hilliar are also on the program.

METROPOLITAN NEW JERSEY—This chapter met March 8 in Westfield, where we had the opportunity to hear two organs recently installed. At St. Paul's Episcopal Church, Marie Schumacher, organist-director, played on the three-manual Möller the following: "Soeur Monique," Couberin; "Clair de Lune," Vierne; Scherzetto, Vierne; "Landscape in Mist," Karg-Elert; Introduction, Passacaglia and Fugue, Willan. The group then walked across the park to the Presbyterian Church, where Richard Litterst is minister of music. He demonstrated the three-manual Casavant by playing: Toccata and Fugue in D minor, Bach; "O World, I Now Must Leave Thee," Brahms; "The Nativity," Langlais; "Thou Art the Rock," Mulet. Both of these fine instruments were fully described in earlier issues of THE DIAPASON. Refreshments were served at the latter church.—MILDRED E. WAGNER, Registrar.

MONMOUTH, N. J.—The Monmouth Chapter met April 5 at St. George's-by-the-River Episcopal Church, Rumson, N. J. Dean Paul L. Thomas gave a recital including: Toccata and Fugue in D minor, Bach; Prelude to "Parsifal," Wagner; Chorale in A minor, Franck; Prelude to "The Deluge," Saint-Saens; Fugue from Sonata on the Ninety-fourth Psalm, Reubke. Immediately following the recital there was a reception for members and friends, followed by a business meeting. It was announced that the rehearsal for the annual spring choral festival will be held May 17 and the performance given May 24 at St. Paul's Methodist Church, Ocean Grove. . . . It is with regret that we record the passing of a former member, Mary J. Makin. A motion was made and seconded to contribute to the Mary J. Makin memorial organ fund at the Presbyterian Church of Point Pleasant, N. J.—BARBARA FIELDER MOUNT, Registrar.

NORTHERN NEW JERSEY—The Northern New Jersey Chapter held its annual students' night April 6 in the Third Presbyterian Church, Paterson. James Healy, organist and choir director of the church, was host. Judges were Mrs. Winifred Hawkins, Harry Thurber and Newell Guilian. Guild members who presented their students were George West, Raymond Tarantino, F. Dudley Kinsey, Mrs. Florence Jehn and Mrs. Belle Vander Kloster. The program included: Prelude and Fugue in G minor, Buxtehude, played by Lillian Rowett; Prelude and Fugue in B flat major, Bach, played by Marian Drew; Aria, "My Heart Ever Faithful," Bach, played by Jacqueline Vander Kloster; Prelude and Fugue in F major, Bach, played by Willard Jost; Communion in G, Batiste, played by Kathleen Bauernfeind; Largo, Dvorak, played by Suzanne Lambert; "Second Sonata (first movement), Mendelssohn, played by Doreen Rowett, and "Carillon," Vierne, played by Gertrude Lois Boer. Refreshments were served by the choir of the church.—MRS. WILLIAM L. STRYKER.

SOUTHERN NEW JERSEY—Claribel Thomson was presented in the annual recital at the March meeting of the Southern New Jersey Chapter in the First Presbyterian Church, Bridgeton. The splendid performance was received enthusiastically. The program consisted of: Prelude and Fugue in G minor, Bach; Chorale Prelude, "O Sacred Head, Now Wounded," Bach; Canon in B minor, Schumann; Aria, Peeters; Chorale in A minor, Franck; Chorale Prelude, "In Quiet Joy," Dupré; "Ronde Française," Boellmann; "Suite in Rhythm," Elmore. Late in February, following the business meeting held at the First Methodist Church, Millville, a very interesting program of piano concertos, with organ accompaniment, was presented. The orchestral accompaniments had been arranged for organ and played by the organist of each number. The program included: Concerto in D minor, Op. 466, Mozart (Carol Bailey); Second Concerto in G minor, Saint-Saens (Rachel Robbins); Concerto in F, Gershwin (Alda Thompson Stowmann). Organ accompaniments for these numbers were played by Walden B. Cox, organist of the host church. Hungarian Fantasy, Liszt, had the unique set-up of father-son performance, Charles Wright, F.A.G.O., playing the organ accompaniment with his son Peter at the piano.

CENTRAL NEW JERSEY—On April 5 the Central New Jersey Chapter held a very interesting meeting at the Covenant Presbyterian Church in Trenton. Mrs. Alfred Bergen, sub-dean, arranged the program. Among those who took part were Miss Kathryn Bernard, Mrs. Norman Hartman and Mrs. Leon Anderson. They presented, respectively, Roman Catholic, Jewish and Protestant hymns.—MARIAN FLINTZER, Registrar.

NORTHEASTERN PENNSYLVANIA—The chapter met March 25 at the home of the treasurer, Miss Charlotte Bohrer, Scranton, with the sub-dean, Mrs. William Newman, Jr., presiding. Ruth Hallock, chairman of the nominating committee, submitted the following slate: Dean, Mrs. N. M. Tacij; sub-dean, Mrs. William Newman, Jr.; secretary, Helen Fitze Rawlings; treasurer, Charlotte Bohrer; auditors, Mrs. Robert Sissen, Robert Behlke and Frederick Bonner. Programs for next season and a contemplated artist recital were discussed.—HELEN FITZE RAWLINGS, Secretary.

WESTERN PENNSYLVANIA—The Western Pennsylvania Chapter met at the Baldwin Community Methodist Church in Pittsburgh March 22, with a dinner served by the men of the adult choir. We were heartily welcomed by the "man of the year" in the field of religion, the Rev. David Wynne, pastor of the church, who recently received this Chamber of Commerce award. The nominating committee, through its chairman, H. Alan Floyd, reported that all present officers are nominated to continue another year in their present offices. Herbert Connor, minister of music of the church, gave a choral program, using his adult volunteer choir. The anthems, "Unto Thee Do I Lift Up My Soul" by Vysch; "Blessings of Peace," Arkhangelsky, and "Sing; Rejoice," Will James, were sung in eight parts, unaccompanied and in a balance of tone that was inspiring. In four parts "We Believe in One True God" by Carl Mueller and "Teach Me, O Lord, the Way of Thy Statutes" were sung in a true spirit of worship. The audience was divided for the four mixed singing parts and, with the choir joining, Mr. Connor conducted in the style of instructor in a choral school. Some anthems used for this part were "Lord, for Thy Tender Mercies' Sake," Farrant; "In Peace and Joy I Now Depart," Fetter; the round "When Jesus Wept," by Billings;

"Love Is Come Again," an old French carol tune, and a seven-part motet of Luther's with words from Lundquist's "Later Renaissance"—ANN LYNN YOUNG, Registrar.

LEHIGH VALLEY CHAPTER—Members of the Lehigh Valley Chapter met at St. Luke's Church, Allentown, Pa., Saturday evening, March 20. The dean, Stoddart Smith, presided. The meeting featured the demonstration of service music and the members submitted appropriate numbers, which were reviewed. Demonstrations were given at the console by Ludwig Lenel, director of music at Muhlenberg College; Stoddart Smith, organist of the First Presbyterian Church, Bethlehem, Pa., and Mrs. Clarence Gehris, organist of St. Luke's Church and chairman of the meeting. The works performed included compositions by Pachelbel, Franck, Schroeder, Peeters, Scheidt, Fleischer, Purvis and Bach. . . . Members of the Lehigh Valley Chapter met at the Central Moravian Church, Bethlehem, Pa., Saturday evening, Feb. 20. After the business meeting Mark Davis, host organist and chairman of the meeting, conducted a discussion of hymn accompaniment and interpretation. Cantatas for the average choir were then reviewed. About forty members were in attendance.—SUE F. ENRIGHT, Secretary.

WILLIAMSPORT, PA.—The annual junior choir festival of the Williamsport Chapter was held Sunday afternoon, March 7, in the First Baptist Church, with eight choirs and 300 voices participating. Co-chairmen for the event were Mrs. Walter G. McIver and Miss Louise Stryker. The subject chosen this year was the history of the church's song, with the Rev. E. Raymond Shaheen as narrator. Numbers used ranged from Jewish to modern American. Two of the compositions in the modern American section of the program were original works of Williamsport Chapter members. These were "Lamb of God," by Miss Louise Stryker, and "Thanksgiving," by Frederick A. Snell.—ERMA M. WINNER, Secretary.

MADISON, WIS., CHAPTER—Gregorian chant as music to be sung by both choir and congregation in a liturgical service was the subject for the Sunday evening, March 28, meeting at Grace Episcopal Church. Gertrude Stillman, organist and choir director of the church, was in charge of the program. After an introductory discussion of the liturgy of the Eucharist, Mrs. Stillman discussed plainchant in its liturgical origins and in its present-day applications. The conducting and singing of plainchant were demonstrated by Mrs. Stillman and those present. Books dealing with various aspects of plainchant were on display. According to Massey Shepherd, author of "At All Times and in All Places," "Grace Parish is one of the leading centers in the American church, of the liturgical movement." Mrs. Stillman related how, in attempting to restore the musical parts of the liturgy for use by the people, Grace Parish has held Sunday afternoon classes to teach the congregation how to sing plainchant.—ANNIE HAINSWORTH LAKOS, A.G.O., Publicity.

CENTRAL IOWA CHAPTER—The chapter met at Grace Methodist Church, Des Moines, April 5. Miss Margaret Snodgrass, instructor of organ at Iowa State College, Ames, gave a program of the following Bach numbers: "O Lamm Gottes, unschuldig," "Ach bleib bei uns, Herr Jesu Christ," "Meine Seele erhebet den Herrn" and Toccata in F major. Dean Nathan Jones presided at the business meeting. Preparations for the Robert Baker recital May 9, were made.—ROBERT M. SPEED, Secretary.

WESTERN IOWA CHAPTER—Following dinner members of the Western Iowa Chapter met for an organ program at the First Methodist Church of Sioux City April 3. The chapter was welcomed by Dr. Mason, minister of the First Methodist Church. Mrs. Elma Zenk Jewett presented the following program, assisted by two vocalists: Prelude in B minor, Bach; "Majesty of Christ Praying," from Ascension Suite, Messiaen; Chorale, "Hail the Day So Rich in Cheer," Buxtehude; "Supplication," Purvis; "But the Lord Is Mindful of His Own," Mendelssohn; "He Shall Feed His Flock," from the "Messiah," Handel; Chorale, "If Thou but Suffer God to Guide Thee," Bach-Glynn; "L'Organo Primitivo," Yon; "Legend of the Mountain," Karg-Elert; "Carillon de Westminster," Vierne.

MINNESOTA CHAPTER—On Sunday, March 21, an organ and choral program was presented at the Hamline Methodist Church, St. Paul, by Mrs. Arthur J. Fellows, A.A.G.O., choir director and organist, assisted by the Hamline Church male chorus. Opening the recital, Mrs. Fellows played Bach's Prelude and Fugue in G major, followed by the Concerto No. 1 of Handel. Haydn's "Musical Clocks" was next presented with unusual rhythmic interpretation and articulate phrasing. Pieces founded on antiphons by Dupré displayed this organist's artistic skill in registration. The male chorus sang the Alto Rhapsody of Brahms with Audrey Shirley Prindle as contralto soloist.—LUCILLA R. HARTWELL, MARGERY RITSCHL.

DUBUQUE CHAPTER—The Dubuque Chapter met in the auditorium of Loras College March 22, with Miss Doris McCaffrey, the dean, presiding. The Rev. Albert Carmen delivered a lecture on Gregorian chant and presented the Schola Cantorum of the college in demonstrations. Recordings of modern compositions based upon the chant were played.

WESTERN MICHIGAN—The chapter met March 1 at the East Congregational Church, Grand Rapids. After dinner, served by the women of the chancel choir, and the business meeting conducted by Dean William Burhenn, the program was turned over to Wilmer T. Bartholomew, minister of music at East Church, who gave a demonstration-lecture on "Sound Waves and Acoustics for the Church Musician," which is used as a textbook in many schools and colleges.—HELEN HAWES, Corresponding Secretary.

EASTERN MICHIGAN—A choir of more than seventy voices representing the Bushnell Congregational, Central Northwest Presbyterian, Aldersgate Methodist, Salem Evangelical and Reformed, St. John's Lutheran and St. James' Methodist Churches, directed by Miss Ellen Addington, with Edwin B. Skinner at the organ, gave a fine presentation of the cantata "Hear My Prayer," Mendelssohn; also "At Evening Hour of Calm and Rest," "And Now to Rest the Lord Is Laid," "Here Yot a While," from "St. Matthew Passion," Bach; and "O Worship the King," Byng-Johnson. This was at the March 16 meeting of the Eastern Michigan Chapter, jointly with the Detroit Guild of Church Musicians, of which Mrs. Margaret Brattin is president. The program was arranged by Mrs. Thelma Addington, a member of both organizations, and was presented at St. Paul's Episcopal Cathedral. A dinner for over seventy guests was served before the program. Robert Cato, organist-director of St. Paul's Cathedral, added to the pleasure of the members and guests with two groups of organ music on the four-manual Barbour memorial organ, the new Casavant console of which was installed in 1952. Mr. Cato's offerings were: "My Inmost Heart Doth Yearn," "O Thou of God the Father" and "Kyrie, God, Holy Ghost," Bach, and a modern group, Toccata from Suite, Op. 17, de Maleingreau; Prelude on a Hymn-tune, Langlais, and Prelude and Fugue in B major, Dupré. Helen Fairchild greeted nine special guests at dinner from the Windsor Centre of the C.C.O. Others who came to the program helped to swell the number to more than 300 guests.—CORA M. MACLEOD, SECRETARY.

SOUTHWESTERN MICHIGAN—A recital by Phil Steinhaus at St. John's Episcopal Church in Sturgis was presented for the Guild at its monthly meeting April 5. Mr. Steinhaus is a junior at the University of Michigan and organist at St. Luke's Episcopal Church in Ypsilanti. He has studied with Robert Noehren and at present with Marilyn Mason. The program was well received. A brief business session was presided over by William E. Gadd, the dean, followed by a social get-together with Myron Casner as host.—LUCILLE HARRISON, Registrar.

ROCKLAND COUNTY CHAPTER—At the March meeting the Rockland County, N. Y., Chapter announced the appointment of three additional members of the executive committee—Mrs. Ruth Churchill, Mrs. Bertha Van Meeteren, and J. Buchanan MacMillan. Mrs. Laura Boucher, the new sub-dean, was appointed chairman of the membership committee, which will launch a campaign for new members. Mrs. Boucher and Mrs. Churchill are making plans for a junior choir festival, to be held under chapter auspices later in the year. A performance of Stainer's "Crucifixion" took place under the auspices of the Rockland County Chapter Tuesday, April 13, in the Lutheran Church of the Good Shepherd, Pearl River, with Mrs. Boucher as organist and choir-master.—ESTELLE E. RINEHART, Registrar.

Schweitzer Fellowship Concert.

A good-sized audience attended the annual Albert Schweitzer fellowship fund concert in First Church of Christ, Congregational, West Hartford, Conn., March 26. The program was put on by the Hartt College string orchestra, Moshe Paronov conductor; the Bach Singers of the University of Connecticut, Philip Treggor director; Gordon Stearns, organ; David Dewitt, flute; Allen Nelson, tenor; Robert Lane, baritone, and Hugh Giles, organist. The program was as follows: Cantata 106, Bach (Bach Singers); Brandenburg Concerto No. 3, Bach, and Concerto No. 5 in F major, Handel (Hugh Giles and Hartt College string orchestra), "An Albert Schweitzer Profile," Giles, and "Connecticut Suite," Op. 56, Bingham (world premiere). The composer of the Connecticut Suite was there in person. He has written organ and choral works and is a fellow of the American Guild of Organists and a teacher at Columbia University.

HAZEL G. EVANS, Publicity Chairman.

BRIDGEPORT, CONN.—The chapter presented Harold Heermans, F.A.G.O., Ch.M., F.T.C.L., in a recital at the First Congregational Church on the Green in Norwalk March 15. Mr. Heermans is organist and choirmaster of Our Saviour's Church, Unitarian, in Brooklyn, instructor at New York University and dean of the New York Chapter, A.G.O. Mr. Heermans introduced each of his numbers with a short description. His program was as follows: Intermezzo (Symphony I), Widor; Prelude and Fugue in C minor, Bach; Chorale Prelude, "To God on High Be Praise," Bach; Fifth Concerto, Handel; Solemn Prelude, Philip James; Suite on Sixteenth Century Hymn-tunes, George Frederick McKay; Finale, Franck.

ELMIRA, N. Y.—The chapter held its March meeting at the Jewish Temple March 2. Rabbi Leonard H. Devine spoke briefly on Jewish history and religion and described the appurtenances of the temple. Naomi Dreyfuss read a paper on Jewish music and Barbara Martin, accompanied by Dorothy Arnold, sang several ancient religious songs. . . . On March 25 the chapter presented an evening program for the Thursday Morning Musicales, using the morning service of the Lutheran Church, Augustana Synod, with the Rev. Bror Olson, the choir of Bethany Lutheran Church and A. Adolf Peterson, organist, participating; anthems by the choir of the North Presbyterian Church, Ruth Christian Welch director; anthems by the choir of the Park Church, directed by DeWitt K. Botts, and anthems by the combined choir. . . . The chapter had a picnic supper and business meeting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ray L. Tucker April 6, with Mary Forte, sub-dean, presiding, Gladys Howe, chairman of the junior choir festival committee, announced that the festival will be held at the Hedding Methodist Church May 9, with Barbara Martin as director and Marion Carlson as organist, and that choirs of eighteen churches, comprising approximately 400 children, will participate. The group decided to hold the annual banquet and election of officers May 11 and Dorothy Holt was appointed chairman of the banquet committee. After several games had been played, Mr. Peterson, in behalf of the chapter, presented a gift to Mr. Botts, whose resignation as dean took effect April 1, in appreciation of his efforts and services in organizing and building up the local chapter.—L. KENNETH MOSHER, Secretary.

CENTRAL HUDSON VALLEY—The meeting of the Central Hudson Valley Chapter March 15 was held at the First Presbyterian Church, Poughkeepsie, N. Y. The program was devoted to wedding music and was in charge of Mrs. Kathleen Pearson, A. A. G. O., and Miss Gloria Massa. The feature was a wedding—Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Dederer the bride and groom, William Emerich the father of the bride, Mrs. William Emerich matron of honor, Harold Tyson best man and Betsy Polhemus flower girl. A reception, in charge of Mrs. Francis Ryan was held in the Ludlow room of the church. The object of the program was to bring to light music that can be used at weddings other than the traditional wedding marches. The pre-wedding music used for this occasion was: "Dearest Jesus, We Are Here," Bach; vocal, "I Will Sing New Songs of Gladness," Dvorak, sung by Mrs. Karen Ranung McCombs, soprano; "Rhosymedre" (Lovely), Vaughan Williams, an organ selection, and "The Call," by the same composer, sung by William Reynolds, baritone; "Deck Thyself, My Soul, with Gladness," Brahms, organ. The processional number used was the Trumpet Tune by Purcell and the recessional "Psalm 19" by Marcello. After the reception a panel discussion was led by Miss Gloria Massa. Miss Massa read excerpts from "Music for Church," by the joint committee of the Episcopal Church. The ministers of the area were invited to this meeting and good points and many bad points were brought to light. The thought was expressed that churches on a local level or on a denominational level could have their own standard for wedding music set up in pamphlet form and a copy be given to each prospective bride.

AUBURN, N. Y., CHAPTER—ON Feb. 14 the chapter presented its third annual youth choir festival in Trinity Methodist Church. More than 100 children from Auburn and vicinity participated in the service, each choir with its own director and accompanist. Professor Melvin Le Mon, director of the music department at Wells College, played the processional music, followed by "Piece Heroique," Franck. The offertory, Chorale and Andante from Sixth Sonata, Mendelssohn, was played by Mrs. Glenn Morse and the postlude, "Entree," Dubois, by Mrs. Leslie Bryant. The choir sang several anthems and united for the final hymn, "The Church's One Foundation." . . . On March 8, in the music room of the Second Presbyterian Church, Lindsay A. J. Lafford presented a program assisted by student members of his chapel choir at Hobart and William Smith Colleges, where Mr. Lafford is director of the music department. The choir sang choral works of Eric Thiman and Mr. Lafford gave a brief sketch of the composer. Richard Stover, host for the evening, exhibited the library recently established by the chapter for use of member churches.—ARLENE MORSE, Registrar.

EASTERN NEW YORK—The March meeting was held at St. John's Lutheran Church in Albany with Mrs. Eric Kehl as hostess. Plans were formulated for the annual dinner in May and it was decided to invite our ministers. An invitation was extended to the Guild to take part in a festival of music to be held at the Cathedral of All Saints the week of June 6-13. Six of our younger members played several organ numbers in a very creditable manner. Allen Chamberlain then gave a brief talk on organ construction. . . . March 28 the Troy Ministers' Association held a Lenten service in the R.P.I. Field House with 5,000 attending. The Guild provided a choir of 500 voices directed by Wellington Stewart, with Miss Winifred Wagner as organist. Anthems selected were: "Praise," Rowley; "Immortal, Invisible," Thiman; "God Is a Spirit," Bennett, and "God So Loved the World," Stainer. Especially beautiful was the unaccompanied singing of "Were You There?" by Walter Witherspoon, choirmaster of St. Paul's Episcopal Church in Albany.—BETTY GALER, Registrar.

BINGHAMTON, N. Y.—The Binghamton Chapter was greatly favored with a beautiful program of vespers music, called "Vespers of the Blessed Virgin Mary," presented in St. Patrick's Church Sunday, Jan. 31, at 4 p.m. by the combined choirs of St. Patrick's, Thomas Quaid organist and choirmaster, and the SS. Cyril and Methodius Church, Michael Harendza organist and choirmaster. An inspiring sermon was preached by the Rev. Eugene Giblin. . . . Feb. 15 the annual dinner meeting of the clergy and organists was held at the First Congregational Church, Binghamton, at the invitation of our dean, Albert Goldsworthy, organist of this church. The helpers' society served the banquet and Miss Emily Williams introduced the speaker, the president of the Hymn Society, Dr. Deane Edwards, who delivered a very interesting address. . . . March 13 a church music workshop program sponsored by the chapter was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Merle Ryan. Mrs. Jeffers D. Richardson was chairman of the program, assisted by Miss Helen Parmalee and Mrs. Wheeler, each giving constructive advice on methods of junior choir work, the co-operation and duties of choir mothers and fathers, along with a round-table discussion by other members of the Guild. After the meeting adjourned refreshments were served by our host and hostess.—LELAND H. CARMAN, Recording Secretary.

ST. LAWRENCE RIVER—The regular meeting of the St. Lawrence River Chapter was held in the choir room of Trinity Episcopal Church, Watertown, April 20. The new roster of officers for our chapter is as follows: Dean, Miss Edith Henderson, A.A.G.O.; sub-dean, Darwin Stata; registrar, Max R. Elsberry; treasurer, Miss Barbara Amos. The chapter was addressed in a most interesting and informative manner by Dr. Graham George of Kingston, Ont., on the subject: "The Modern Idiom and the Church." Dr. George is professor of music at Queens University and organist and choirmaster at the Sydenham Street United Church, Kingston.—LESTER H. BRIGHT, Registrar.

WILKES-BARRE, Pa.—A program of choir and organ music was presented at the March meeting of the Wilkes-Barre Chapter in St. John's Lutheran Church, Wilkes-Barre. The program arrangements were made by Henry Johnson. Robert Dudeck, organist of St. John's Lutheran Church in Nanticoke, opened the program with an organ selection by Mendelssohn, Prelude No. 2. This was followed by two anthems sung by the choir of St. Paul's, Wilkes-Barre, under the direction of Mrs. Peter Broadt and Miss Lois Lee, organist. Their selections, arranged for SAB, were "Turn Thy Face from My Sins," Sullivan, and "Lo, a Voice to Heaven Sounding," Bortniansky. The adult choir of the Firwood Methodist Church then sang "Send Out Thy Spirit," Schuetky. Mrs. Ruth Turn Reynolds is organist and choir director of this church. An arrangement of "O Lamb of God" by Blair was rendered by the youth choir of St. Matthew's Slovak Church, Zlata Tuhy director and organist. As a final choral number the adult choir of St. Clement's Episcopal Church, under the direction of Mrs. Louie Wiegand Ayre, sang a "Te Deum" by Clokey. Mrs. Robert Wright, organist and choir director at the Shavertown Methodist Church, closed the program with an organ solo by Ravello entitled "Elegia." . . . During the Lenten season the Wilkes-Barre Chapter is sponsoring a series of recitals at St. Stephen's Episcopal Church. These recitals, played by local organists, are offered on Fridays from 12:05 to 12:35, and are open to the public.—MARGUERITE M. BORMAN, Secretary.

HARRISBURG, PA.—The Harrisburg Chapter held its March meeting in the Derry Street E. U. B. church, March 20. It was an evening devoted to "The Value and Purposes of Guild Examinations." The discussion was introduced by Arnold S. Bowman, organist-director of the host church, reviewing two papers issued by national headquarters—"Preparation for the A.G.O. examinations," by Rowland Dunham, and "Guild Examinations—Practical Projects for Church Musicians," by Leslie Spelman. Organ compositions required to pass the examination were played by Arnold J. Bauer, organist-director at the First Lutheran Church, Carlisle; Frank Mulheron, Salem Reformed Church; Agness Hess, Ridge Avenue Methodist Church, and Mr. Bowman. An explanation and examples of the paper work required to pass the examination were presented by Mrs. MacGregor G. Jones and Robert S. Clippinger of Grace Methodist Church and dean of the chapter. Both of these members hold the A.A.G.O. certificate. Both related interesting experiences while taking the examinations. . . . On May 18 the chapter will present Robert Baker in a recital at Messiah Lutheran Church. During Lent, following a custom established by the late Alfred C. Kuschwa and continued by Gordon E. Breary, organist-director at St. Stephen's Episcopal Church, a series of Lenten recitals was presented every Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock.—IRENE BRESSLER, Registrar.

LANCASTER, PA.—Mrs. Otto F. Messner was general chairman of the monthly meeting of the Lancaster Chapter in the Broad Street Methodist Church April 5. Gordon M. Eby and William Getz presented a lovely group of recordings. Student members of the chapter will give a program of organ selections at the next meeting, May 3, in Emmanuel Lutheran Church. Amos Kreider, organist of the host church, will serve as program chairman. Refreshments were served by the committee at the conclusion of the meeting.—FRANCES M. McCUE, Registrar.

DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA—The April meeting of the District of Columbia Chapter was held April 5 in the Walter Reed Army Hospital chapel, with Marguerite Brice, organist, as hostess and with Dean Nancy Tufts presiding. After the business meeting we had an outstanding program. Temple Dunn, organist, presented his original compositions: "Come Thou Fount," assisted by Lee Meredith, soprano; "Jesus Calls Us," assisted by Millicent Tomkins, soprano; "Voix Celeste," with Mr. Dunn at the organ for all three numbers. Dale Cornor then played "Spiritual," Purvis, and "Thou Art My Rock," Mueller. Thelma Quesenberry astonished all by her demonstration of the use of Braille in learning organ numbers, phrase by phrase, hand by hand, finally putting it all together from memory. Her explanation of how music was written in Braille was most interesting. After a brief talk on "Guild Examinations" by John Wilson, A.A.G.O., we heard the required 1954 A.A.G.O. examination organ numbers played by Mrs. Wesley Blake. . . . Guild members looked forward to our Guild service April 25 at 4 p.m. in the Washington Cathedral. Paul Callaway, F.A.G.O., presented an outstanding program of music by A.G.O. composers, notably Searle Wright's "The Green Blade Riseth." The Rev. Lowell F. Beveridge, F.A.G.O., spoke and following the service Charles Dodsley Walker gave a recital. . . . The first program of national music week May 1 was Guild sponsored at American University. The Air Force band with William Watkins is presenting the Hindemith Concerto.—BERNICE G. FRASER, Registrar.

PATAPSCO CHAPTER—The Patapsco Chapter held its monthly meeting April 3 in the Wayland Baptist Church, Baltimore. The Rev. W. W. Payne, pastor of the church, was chairman of the program and spoke on the specifications of the Möller organ. Organ and vocal solos and a discussion of the place of music in a church service concluded the meeting.—MARGARET R. FRANKLIN, Registrar.

AKRON, OHIO, CHAPTER—The Akron Chapter gathered at the home of Harold Tower April 5 for a family potluck supper. The dean, Mrs. Dorothy Deininger, announced that the chapter will present La Vahn Maesch in a recital May 3 at the Westminster Presbyterian Church. We as a chapter feel honored to have as our dean one who recently won first honors in organ in the regional competition in Dayton. Mrs.

Deininger will compete at the national convention in Minneapolis this summer. She gave a recital in Akron at the First Congregational Church April 25.—MRS. R. H. MARTIN, Registrar.

YOUNGSTOWN, OHIO—Members of the Youngstown Chapter were guests of Westminster Presbyterian Church April 5. The Rev. Walter T. Swarengin, dean of the chapter, presided. Walter Horsley, program chairman, introduced the guest speaker, the Rev. Carlton R. Young, who is minister of music at the Church of the Saviour, Cleveland Heights, Ohio. Mr. Young spoke on "The Ministry of Music Today," discussing the aims and responsibilities of the "church music educator" as he prefers to call the church music director. "The church music educator works with the person, with music and with poetry, all within the sacred realm. The music educator must be a transmitter rather than a container and should strive to lift those with whom he works to a higher spiritual level." Mr. Horsley, organist at Westminster, and Mrs. Samuel G. Warr, wife of the minister and a member of the Guild, acted as host and hostess at the meeting. Refreshments were served by a group of choir members.—GINA SATILNO, Secretary.

CENTRAL OHIO CHAPTER—The Central Ohio Chapter met April 5 at the Fourth Lutheran Church in Springfield, with Leroy Lynn as host. The program included two groups of organ solos by Mr. Lynn; a group of vocal solos by Mrs. Anni Vance, formerly of Vienna, and a talk by the pastor, the Rev. Dana Johnson, on "Stewardship in Music." The fellowship club of the church held a reception for the visitors.—W. H. SHAFER, Secretary.

ST. PAUL STUDENT GROUP—This group met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Stone Jan. 12. They had a delightful experience hearing four foreign students of Hamline University tell about the music of their countries. Marita Lonnholm, from Finland; Bente Rordem, from Denmark; Elizabeth Moser, from Switzerland, and Dierk Luers from Germany were on the program. The three young women played recordings to augment their reviews. Dierk Luers played a program of sonatas on an alto recorder, which was done beautifully. The students were impressed to the extent that another evening of the same type is planned.

NEBRASKA CHAPTER—The First Christian Church, Council Bluffs, Iowa, was host to the Nebraska Chapter March 29. Miss Hope Yates, our sub-dean, was hostess. Mildred I. Mowers gave a thorough-going talk on the "History and Ethics of the Guild." He covered organization, purposes, membership and particularly mentioned standardization of organ consoles, conventions, national and regional, and ethics. Now and again the newer members request information in this regard and Mr. Mowers endeavored to supply it.—HELEN MANNING, Secretary.

WICHITA, KAN., CHAPTER—Wallace Dunn, organist of St. John's Episcopal Church and instructor at Wichita University, gave a recital March 23 for the Wichita Chapter at St. Mary's Cathedral. Mr. Dunn's program included works by Karg-Elert, Franck, Langlais and Bach. After the recital Sister Eustasia, director of music at the cathedral, discussed choral services and chanting.—W. ARNOLD LYNCH, Dean.

IDAHO FALLS, IDAHO—The Idaho Falls Chapter enjoyed a social get-together with Guild members April 12 at Trinity Methodist Church. Dr. Florence Chambers presented the following program: Chorale and Fugue, Bach; Andante, Sowerby; Three Impressions: "Mist," Debussy, "The Cathedral," Respighi, and "The Lake," Ravel; Prelude and Fugue, Franck; Allegro, Pienne, and Finale, Widor. Dr. Chambers studied for five years under Dupré in Paris and has been heard in recitals in many cities. She is director of the newly-organized department of music therapy at the Idaho State Mental Hospital in Blackfoot. A reception followed the recital, with Mrs. Hoyt Woolley doing an outstanding job with decorations and refreshments.

PORTLAND, ORE.—Brenda Rohrbough, secretary of the Oregon Chapter, was hostess at the meeting in April at her home in Colonial Heights. Dean Charles Gray presided and brought up many important matters relative to the Fox recital, the national convention in Minneapolis and the establishment of memorials for two long-time members—William Robinson Boone and Frank Alexander, who contributed so much to the Guild and to the musical life of Portland. Another meeting was scheduled at St. James' Lutheran Church April 19 to complete arrangements for the Virgil Fox recital. After the meeting refreshments were served by the hostess.—HOWARD BACKLUND, Recorder.

WASHINGTON CHAPTER—The Washington Chapter held its meeting April 5 at the Church of the Assumption, Seattle. Dean Lois Peterson outlined plans for the Marilyn Mason recital April 20 and the national A.G.O. convention in July. Miss Edith Woodcock of the music faculty of the University of Washington was the principal speaker. She told many interesting anecdotes of her recent trip to Europe. James P. Impett, assistant organist of the host church, played a short recital.—MRS. JAMES B. PIERSON, Publicity Chairman.

Rudolph Ganz Chicago Speaker.

Rudolph Ganz, eminent concert pianist and teacher, will be the guest speaker at the annual meeting of the Illinois Chapter, to be held at the Cordon Club Monday, May 17, at 6:30. Election of officers is to take place at this meeting and the dean, Dr. Francis Moore, will discuss the new Guild directory.

The chapter sponsored a choral evening March 28 at Grace Episcopal Church in Oak Park, where Francis E. Aulbach is organist and choirmaster. A congregation which nearly filled the large nave heard Mr. Aulbach's choir of men and boys sing the service. At the offertory the choir sang an anthem composed by Mr. Aulbach—"The Lord of Hosts." Benjamin Hadley and Robert Lodine, F.A.G.O., each played a group of organ numbers. Mr. Hadley's selections included three settings of "O Sacred Head," by Pepping, an eighteenth century setting of "Salvation Now Is Come to Us" and Reger's Introduction and Passacaglia. Mr. Lodine played: "Dialogue" in A minor, de Grigny; Trio on "Herr Jesu Christ, dich zu uns wend," Bach; "Postlude pour l'Office de Compline," Alain, and "Carillon," Dupré. Movements from Barnes' Second Symphony were played as prelude and postlude by Mr. Aulbach.

Central Ohio Meeting in Springfield.

The Central Ohio Chapter held its annual out-of-Columbus meeting in the Fourth Lutheran Church, Springfield, Ohio, April 5, with H. Leroy Lynn, organist of the church, as host and organist of the evening. The fellowship club of the church entertained the Guild members at a reception after the program. Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. Fox and Mr. and Mrs. H. Leroy Lynn were hosts and hostesses for this meeting. The featured soloist was Anni Vance, contralto, formerly of Vienna, Austria, who has had a wide range of experience musically in opera and on the concert stage.

Mr. Lynn opened the program with four organ numbers—Cathedral Prelude and Fugue in E minor, Bach; "Come, Sweet Death," Bach, as arranged by Virgil Fox; "Celestial Banquet" by Messiaen, and Rhapsody on "King's Lynn," Henry Coleman. The Rev. Dana H. Johnson, pastor of the church, then delivered an address on "Stewardship in Music," which was a delightful commentary on lives of composers and organists dedicated to God's work and service through music, and not for the sake of music alone. Mrs. Vance then sang four selections and Mr. Lynn concluded the program with the Gothic Suite by Boellmann.

The Guild members paused in their meeting for prayer in memory of Frederick C. Mayer, A.A.G.O., who died of a heart attack March 30. He was formerly dean of the chapter and for many years was head of the music department at Capital University, Columbus, Ohio.

FORT WAYNE, IND.—A recital of organ and choral music was presented by members of the Fort Wayne Chapter March 30 at Zion Lutheran Church. The program was in three parts, the first part played by Mrs. Gaston Bailhe, organist at the Wayne Street Methodist Church, and the third part by Miss Harriet Northrop, minister of music at the Crescent Avenue Evangelical United Brethren Church. Mrs. Bailhe's numbers were "Stabat Mater Dolorosa," Lemaigre; Choral in A minor, Franck, and "Hymn of Glory," Yon. Miss Northrop played "Kol Nidrei," Bruch-Reimann; "Priore," Jongen, a Meditation on the Choral "Our Father Which Art in Heaven" by Pasquet, and "Credo in Unum Deum," Everett Titcomb. Robert Sheffer, organist and choir director at the Forest Park Methodist Church, was responsible for the second part of the program, consisting of beautiful choral and instrumental music. Miss Beverly Nordyke, soprano soloist, sang "O Rejoice, Ye Christians, Loudly," Bach, and "Holy, Holy, Holy." Spohr. Mr. Sheffer next presented Buxtehude's solo cantata "My Jesus Is My Lasting Joy," with Everett Smith, tenor, singing the solo part, and the chancel choir of the church with Gordon Collins and Mrs. Virginia Shambaugh, violinists, and Mr. Sheffer at the organ, for the other parts. The chancel choir then sang "Light Everlasting," by Christiansen, and "The Lord's Prayer," Gates, a cappella. A large audience was present for the recital and many lingered afterward to view the church, which has recently been remodeled and redecorated. —Mrs. W. S. FIFE, Publicity.

EAST CENTRAL ILLINOIS—The East Central Illinois Chapter met at the University Women's Club in Urbana March 22. Mrs.

Frederick B. Stiven, honorary member, was hostess. Dr. Otto Kinkeldey, internationally known musicologist, was the speaker of the evening. He is a visiting professor in the school of music at the University of Illinois this year. Dr. Kinkeldey traced the history of organs through the sixteenth century. He circulated various pictures and rare volumes as he spoke. The University of Illinois president, Lloyd Morey, and Mrs. Morey, newly-elected honorary members, were presented by Mrs. Harold Iles, dean of the chapter. Mrs. Morey presided at the table. —MILDRED K. DAWSON, Secretary.

PEORIA, ILL.—The Peoria Chapter held its March meeting at the Westminster Presbyterian Church on the 12th. A large audience assembled to hear a Bach program presented by Mrs. Vandalia Burgy and T. Northcliffe Neal, organists. Miss Adelaide Ihrig White, program chairman, introduced the Rev. William R. O'Neill, pastor of the church, who gave a review of "The Prophet in the Wilderness" by Herman Hagedorn. The choir of the church served refreshments. —ANNA LUCY SMILEY, Registrar.

NORTHERN CALIFORNIA CHAPTER—The first quarter of the year brought a surge of activity to the chapter. E. Power Biggs was our first Guild recitalist of the season. Playing at the First Presbyterian, Oakland, he was heard by an overflow audience. Jean Langlais gave his long-awaited recital on the magnificent Grace Cathedral organ in San Francisco Feb. 28. By request, in lieu of the scheduled Telemann-Bach Concerto, he opened with the Franck Finale from Six Organ Pieces. Chapter activities brought a February recital session and social evening at Trinity Presbyterian Church, San Francisco, the chief item being the Puccini Mass—a rare recording. March 16 found thirty members of the chapter tucking away large quantities of corned beef and cabbage in a pre-St. Patrick's Day dinner sponsored by Sub-Dean Leonard Fitzpatrick at St. Dominic's Church. Father Robert Hayburn spoke on the life of the Irish saint and boys from St. Dominic's choir offered Irish songs and step dances. The evening closed with a rehearsing of tapes of the Langlais recital and with members trying St. Dominic's large Estey organ. . . . In addition to the monthly recitals of Richard Purvis and Harold Mueller, other Guild members have presented unusual musical treats in their capacities as choir directors. These included a post-Christmas concert of seasonal music by Robert Moon-an, organist, and the men's choir of Old St. Mary's Church, and, Feb. 28, two choral offerings—an afternoon program of Catholic music for men's choir at Old St. Patrick's Church, San Francisco, with a first performance in the West of the Mass in Honor of St. Francis by the contemporary Netherlands, Jan Neiland, with Robert Vaughn as organist and director. In the evening the First Christian Church of Oakland sanctuary choir presented Haydn's "Seasons" under the leadership of Richard Montague. —ROBERT VAUGHN, Registrar.

SAN DIEGO, CAL.—The San Diego Chapter presented its annual student recital April 5 in the La Mesa Methodist Church. The following students, whose teachers are members of the San Diego Chapter, took part: Janet Kraft (studio of Harold W. Baltz) played: Prelude and Fugue in D minor, Bach; Chorale Prelude ("Herr Christ, der einig Gottes Sohn"), Buxtehude; Canzona, Gabrieli. Leone Tyndale (studio of Ethel W. Kennedy) played: Chorale Prelude (Forest Green), Purvis, and Festival Toccata, Fletcher. Wendell Allred (studio of Ethel W. Kennedy) played: Toccata and Fugue in D minor, Bach. Charlotte Tripp Atkinson (studio of Edith Gottfried) played: Scherzo (Sonata in E minor), Rogers, and Largo e Maestoso; Allegro (Sonata No. 1 in D minor), Guilmant. To add variety to the program Valerie Archibald, violinist, accompanied by her sister, Sharon, played a group of solos. The collection taken at the concert will go toward the San Diego Chapter student scholarship fund. Each year this chapter presents a $100 scholarship to an organ student. Charlotte Tripp Atkinson, who appeared on this program, was the winner last year. —ISABEL TINKHAM, Corresponding Secretary.

CENTRAL CALIFORNIA—"L'Affaire Prince-Joseph" provided Allan Bacon, professor of organ at the College of the Pacific, with lecture material for the April 4 meeting of the chapter at the home of Mrs. R. Martin in Lodi. Entertainment was provided by Walter Kiesz as soloist in Mozart's Concerto No. 12 for piano, with Mrs. Wilhelmine Pryor conducting the Central California Chapter orchestra, appearing this time in the guise of an electronic organ. Vocal music was by a retired prima donna, Ethel Dobson Sayles, who has appeared with the Boston Symphony and as soloist at New York's Riverside Church. Her pupil, Robert Shirley, sang the Flower Song from Bizet's "Carmen" and Mrs. Sayles joined him in Friml's "Sympathy". Before refreshments were served, details for forthcoming chapter programs were discussed. These include the service on national Guild Sunday, a recital by Claire Coci, an all-Sowerby program and the Kodaly "Mass in Time of War," with the Stockton Chorale, a semi-professional group conducted by Arthur J. Holton, with Inez Pope at the organ. . . . A "program of music in manuscript" was presented March 28 at Stockton's First Christian Church, where W. Carroll Kirkman is organist-director. The program included four of Mr. Kirkman's songs as sung by Rowena Wright Richetti, soprano, and two songs by the late dean, Ardene Phifer, sung by J. Henry Welton, accompanied by Mr. Kirkman. John L. McCarthy was organist in George Brandon's Prelude on the hymn-tune "St. Agnes" and flutist in Allan Bacon's "En Bateau," with the composer at the organ. Fred Tulan was organist in two preludes on chorales from Bach's "Christmas Oratorio" by Richard Felciano and two chorale variations on Hebrew hymn-tunes by Ellis B. Kohs, acting head of the theory department at the University of Southern California. . . . A program of music written for the organ by romantic composers was offered March 22 at Lodi's Hilborn Seventh-day Adventist Church, where Walter Kiesz is organist-director. Mrs. Pryor played selections from the Boellmann "Suite Gothique" and the Widor Fourth Symphony, John Newell played the Prelude to the Guilmant C minor Sonata (Op. 56), E. C. Brommer played Brahms' "Soul, Adorn Thyself With Gladness" and Schumann's Fugue No. 3 on "B-A-C-H." Fred Tulan played the Introit from Vierne's "Mass for the Dead" and Brahms' "O World, I Now Must Leave Thee." Donald Sutherland played the Vierne Berceuse, Inez Pope played the Franck E major Chorale and Mr. Kiesz played the Adagio from the Mendelssohn First Sonata and Risoluto by Parker. —FRED TULAN, Dean.

LA JOLLA CHAPTER, CALIFORNIA—The La Jolla Chapter has had a number of varied and interesting events during the last three months and this month we looked forward with keen interest to the recital of Marilyn Mason, of the University of Michigan at Ann Arbor, who played April 23 at the First Presbyterian Church. In March the chapter presented the Rev. William Forshaw, M. A., minister of the Union Congregational Church of La Jolla, who gave an outstanding lecture on the life and work of Dr. Albert Schweitzer. Mr. Forshaw has long been a student of the writings and teachings of Dr. Schweitzer and in recent years has had the opportunity to hear and talk with him at Aspen, Colo. The principal portion of his lecture was devoted, however, to Dr. Schweitzer's viewpoint on the works of Bach. The parish-house auditorium of St. James-by-the-Sea Episcopal Church, La Jolla, was filled to capacity for this event. The chapter also recently presented Dr. Frank W. Asper, organist of the Salt Lake City Tabernacle. This recital was attended by more than 1,000 people and the audience drew Dr. Asper back for bow after bow and four encores. Dr. Asper's program included two compositions by members of the La Jolla Chapter—"Beside Still Waters," by our dean, Charles H. Marsh, and "Evening Song," by Dr. Herbert E. Hyde. Mr. Marsh is organist and choirmaster of the Episcopal Church of St. James-by-the-Sea and Dr. Hyde is organist and choirmaster of the La Jolla Presbyterian Church. —DOUGLAS IAN DUNCAN, Secretary.

RECITALS ON ONE of the world's largest organs will be a feature of the summer season in Passau, Germany, according to the German Tourist Information Office. The cathedral organ is an instrument of 17,000 pipes, five manuals and 208 registers. Performances will take place daily at 12:15 and 7 p.m.

News of the American Guild of Organists—Continued

RICHMOND, VA., CHAPTER—The annual organist-clergy dinner was held March 9 at the Sunset Hills Baptist Church, where Mrs. Barbara Walters is organist-director. Dean William Schutt read a paper on the late T. Tertius Noble and outlined the Guild programs for the rest of the year. He then called upon Robert Lutton, program chairman, to give details on the junior choir festival March 14 at Grace Covenant Presbyterian Church under the direction of Mrs. Ruth K. Jacobs. Mr. Lutton introduced the speaker of the evening, James Lincoln, executive secretary of the department of religious education of the Episcopal Diocese of Virginia. Mr. Lincoln spoke on the importance of good relations between organist and pastor. The minister, he said, was called first, and is to be the leader, but the organist also is important in planning music which will aid the people in worship. Another part of the Christian witness of music, Mr. Lincoln felt, is the choir practice of the church, which should be without haggling between members or between members and organist. He advocated meetings of pastor and organist in order to work closely to see how the ministry of music and of the spoken word can best accomplish their purpose.—MRS. BARBARA D. WALTERS, Registrar.

KNOXVILLE, TENN.—For the past two seasons we have followed the custom of holding our monthly meetings in various churches, preceded by dinner prepared by the women of the church. April 5 we met at the Broadway Baptist Church with Miss Margaret Johnson, church organist, as our hostess. After dinner our dean asked Harry H. Harter, director of music at Maryville College, Maryville, Tenn., and one of our own members, to tell us of his new composition, a Requiem. This was presented at Maryville College April 25 with Mr. Harter conducting the large college choir. Lelia H. Leslie, prominent singer and teacher of Knoxville, was one of the soloists. She is also a member of our chapter. Following this we assembled in the auditorium for our program of the evening. Mr. Harter read an interesting paper on "Hymnody." Mrs. Claudia Carter, another prominent musician of Maryville and chapter member, read her paper relating to "Chorale Preludes," followed by playing several numbers. Mrs. Carter is a student of Lillian Carpenter and Clair Cocl. Our program chairman, Mary Eleanor Jones, A.A.G.O., has arranged interesting programs for the entire year.—MRS. HARRY W. SHUGART, Dean.

CENTRAL TENNESSEE CHAPTER—The chapter held its monthly session Feb. 9 at the West End Methodist Church, Nashville. Warren Hutton, organist of the church, was host. Mr. Hutton arranged a unique program by presenting, with the assistance of his pastor, Dr. James W. Henley, as narrator, Louis Nicholas, director of music at the church, as director and the chancel choir, Van Denman Thompson's oratorio, "The Evangel of the New World." The presentation of the oratorio was open to the public and followed the regular form of service. Mr. Hutton played for his prelude Adagio in E, Bridge.—J. ALEX KOELLEN, Secretary.

MEMPHIS, TENN., CHAPTER—On Feb. 9, in conjunction with St. Luke's Methodist Church, we presented E. Power Biggs in a recital on the Casavant organ recently installed in the church. Mr. Biggs played an interesting and diverse program. The members of the chapter were privileged to meet Mr. Biggs at a reception after the recital in the home of Mrs. Carleton Wilkes, organist of St. Luke's Church. . . . On March 8 the chapter held its regular meeting at the Galloway Methodist Church, with Mrs. M. E. Hinds as hostess. We were greeted by a beautifully laid table and an excellent dinner prepared by the women of the church. The chapter was to honor Ernest Hawkes, F.A.G.O., but Mr. Hawkes was ill and unable to come. Dean Arthur Leslie Jacobs conducted the meeting after the dinner and then the chapter heard a talk on choral composition by Raymond Haggh.—RAYMOND HAGGH, Registrar.

LYNCHBURG, VA.—The March meeting of the Lynchburg Chapter was held in the chapel of the First Baptist Church March 19. Theodore Herzel, the dean, presided over the business period and introduced the speaker of the evening, Bertram Y. Kinsey, Jr., of the architecture department of Virginia Polytechnic Institute, whose subject was "Church Architecture and Acoustics." After the lecture there was a short informal discussion period.—FRANCES C. PETERS, Registrar.

COLUMBIA, S. C.—On the afternoon of March 28 the Columbia, S. C., Chapter sponsored an organ recital at the Shandon Methodist Church by Gordon and Grady Wilson, twins who are stationed at Fort Jackson. The 23-year-old twins recently transferred to the local chapter from the Birmingham, Ala., Chapter, and they are taking an active interest in the musical life of their adopted city. Before their induction they were studying organ under Virgil Fox in New York City and they plan to continue their studies following their release from the army. The following program was played by the young men: Fantasie in F minor, Mozart; Sonatina, "God's Time Is the Best," Bach; Fantasie and Fugue in G minor, Bach; Chorale, "My Heart Is Filled with Longing" (second setting), Brahms; Toccata, "Thou Art the Rock," Mulet; "Le Banquet Celeste," Messiaen; Prelude and Fugue in G minor, Dupré; Communion, Purvis; Paraphrase on the Te Deum, Langlais; Intermezzo, Caljaerts; "Litanies," Alain.—MRS. ISABELLE H. MAUTERER, Publicity Chairman.

SPARTANBURG, S. C., CHAPTER—A performance of Mendelssohn's "Elijah" was sponsored by the Spartanburg Chapter March 14 at Twichell Auditorium, Converse College. Rachel Pierce, dean of the chapter and professor of organ at Converse College, and John E. Williams, minister of music at the First Presbyterian Church, were organist and conductor. Members of the Converse College Guild student group served as ushers. An enthusiastic audience of 650 people attended the concert.—JOHN E. WILLIAMS.

CHARLESTON, S. C.—The Charleston Chapter held its monthly meeting April 2 at Grace Episcopal Church. The organist, Mrs. Kathleen Rahman, played three Bach numbers and William Schroder, well-known Charleston baritone, sang two selections by Mendelssohn. It was decided to have the next meeting at Trinity Methodist Church, which church will be the host for the annual choir festival May 25. Instead of the regular May meeting the choir festival will be held.—(MISS) ELIZABETH MCCRANTZ, Reporter.

WHEELING, W. VA.—The Wheeling Chapter had a program of special organ music at its March meeting, held at St. James' Lutheran Church. The program, planned by Mrs. Robert Upton, included wedding, communion and patriotic music. Miss Nancy Crow, mezzo-soprano and soloist at the First Presbyterian Church, sang "The Wedding Hymn," by Lovelace; "O Perfect Love," by Pedrette, and "Entreat Me Not to Leave Thee," Gounod. She was accompanied by Miss Corina Friedrich, organist of St. James' Church. Communion music by Loret, Karg-Elert and Kreckel was presented by Miss Friedrich. The program was concluded with two selections of patriotic music—"American Rhapsody," Pietro Yon, and "America," Carl Moter, played by Mrs. Walter Moore, organist of the United Presbyterian Church. After the program a reception for members and guests was held in the church social rooms.—JANET WEISNER, Registrar.

AUGUSTA, GA.—The Augusta Chapter met March 15 in St. John's Methodist Church for a business meeting, with the dean, Mrs. John Remington, presiding, followed by an informal organ recital by several of the members. Royston Merritt played "I Call to Thee, Lord Jesus," Bach; Mrs. Max Turner played Introduction and Allegro, F. Edward Bach; Mrs. Carrie McClatchy, "Alleluia Pascha Nostra," Titcomb; Miss Eugenia Toole, Prelude in G major, Bach, and "Dreams," Faure; Michael Toole, "Antiphon No. 5," Dupré; Mrs. John Remington, "Jesu, meine Freude," Bach. Fifteen members and two visitors were present.—MARGUERITE H. MARSCHALK, Registrar.

ST. PETERSBURG, FLA.—The St. Petersburg Chapter held its monthly luncheon and business meeting at the Hotel Detroit April 5. Plans were made for the Florida state convention to be held in St. Petersburg May 10 and 11, with headquarters at the Hotel Suwannee. On May 3 there will be the annual meeting and election of officers at the Mirror Lake Christian Church. April 16 a workshop forum on "Choir Repertoire" was held at the Allendale Methodist Church and it was conducted by Mrs. Ruth Belmont. Our dean, Mrs. Kermit Foster, presided at our luncheon meeting, which was the final one for this season. Announcement was made of the annual Guild service to be held at Trinity Lutheran Church May 9. Mrs. Ann Ault, state chairman, announced the formation of a new branch at Lakeland. The luncheon speaker was the Rev. Paul D. Miller, pastor of the Garden Crest Presbyterian Church. Mr. Miller stressed the fact that in the church service music is a means, not an end. His topic was "The Minister's Part in the Music of the Church." Music at the luncheon meeting was furnished by Ray Chase, who played his original Concert Fantasy for piano. Edgar Buckhorn was the tenor soloist.—DOROTHY BERRY KIRK, A.A.G.O., Corresponding Secretary.

TALLAHASSEE, FLA.—Members of the Tallahassee Chapter drove to Marianna, Fla., a distance of about sixty miles, to be guests of the church musicians of that city in a round-table discussion. One hundred guests from Marianna and surrounding towns met with the Tallahassee group in the Methodist Church. Miss Juanita Lawrence, former student at Florida State University, was in charge of arrangements. The discussion centered on the singing of hymns and chants and selections for the organ. Tea was served in the church parlor after the meeting. . . . On Feb. 2 the chapter co-sponsored, with the Florida State University artist series and the Guild student group, a recital in Oppen-man Music Hall by Virgil Fox. The performance was followed by a reception by the student group. . . . Sunday afternoon, March 28, the Guild student group was the guest of the E. B. Shelfers of Quincy, Fla. The afternoon was spent in the lovely natural gardens belonging to Mr. and Mrs. Shelfer amid a riot of azalea and iris blooms. The group played the organ in the new memorial chapel presented to the Methodist Church by the Shelfer family and then went to their home for tea and more organ music.

TEXARKANA CHAPTER—The Texarkana Chapter met March 27 at 2 o'clock at the Beech Street Baptist Church. Dean Ruth Turner announced that there would be no regular meeting in April as the chapter is presenting Robert Ellis from the Henderson State Teachers' College, Arkadelphia, Ark., and several of his pupils in a program on the night of April 24. Plans were completed for the concert by the junior choirs of the city Sunday, April 25, at the First Baptist Church, sponsored by the chapter. Arrangements were also completed for celebrating April 25 as Guild Sunday, with organists and choir directors using music written by American composers for services in the various churches. Mrs. J. P. Watlington was in charge of the program and introduced Mrs. Ralph Crosnoe, who reviewed a chapter of the study book "Steps Toward a Singing Church," by Kettering. The musical program consisted of organ solos: "Song of Triumph," Diggle, and "Little Star," Moussorgsky, played by Miss Leonard Anderson, and A minor Chorale, Franck, Mrs. Watlington.—DOROTHY ELDER, Registrar.

GALVESTON, TEX., CHAPTER—The Galveston Chapter presented one of its members, Michael F. Collerain, in a recital at the Sacred Heart Church Sunday afternoon, March 7. Program numbers selected by Mr. Collerain, who begins his twenty-first year as organist and choirmaster at Sacred Heart, were as follows: Prelude and Fugue in C, Böhm; Chorale, "Nun komm, der Heiden Heiland," Buxtehude; Verset, "Pange Lingua," Titelouze; Fugue in A, Czernohorsky; Chorales, "Out of the Deep I Cry" and "To God on High Be Praise," Bach; Chorale No. 3, Franck; Antiphon I, Dupré; "Benedictus," Reger; "In the Love of Jesus Christ," Benoit; "Mater Admirabilis," Op. 18, Muset.—MRS. JOHN HAMILTON, Secretary.

LUBBOCK, TEX.—The Lubbock Chapter held its monthly meeting for April at St. John's Methodist Church. The meeting began with a dinner and then a business session. Dean Bolton presiding. A program was presented in the sanctuary—first a paper was read by Mrs. Samuel Lee on the melody and text of the Passion Chorale. Vocal numbers by Marshall Gordon and organ numbers by Miss Betty Shewbert and Mrs. Samuel Lee followed this.

OKLAHOMA CITY CHAPTER—The chapter met at the Central Presbyterian Church and the members and guests were served a roast beef dinner prepared by the committee, headed by Mrs. George Weach. The program consisted of a panel on "Problems in Architecture Relating to Church Music." Robert Moore was moderator. The guests were William Parr and Otha Wolfe, architect, assisted by Paul Haggard, organ designer. A general discussion concluded the evening.—LUCILE D. KURTZ, Corresponding Secretary.

CENTRAL ARIZONA—The Central Arizona Chapter met Sunday, March 21, at Temple Beth Israel in Phoenix to hear a program of Jewish music by the temple cantor, quartet and organist. In addition to traditional music, some of the very recent writings in this field were presented. Rabbi Morton Fierman was introduced by Subdean Ruth Kuhl. He gave an outline of the music to be heard. The musicians of the temple are Maurice Chesler, cantor; Irma Watkin, organist; Harriet Aleksander, soprano; Edward Francis, baritone; Lillie King Shaw, contralto and director, and Marion Smith, tenor.—MARVIN ANDERSON, Recording Secretary.

SOUTHERN ARIZONA CHAPTER—Under the direction of Professor Andrew W. Buchhauser of the University of Arizona organ students of the university, assisted by faculty members of the fine arts college, presented a Bach program for the Southern Arizona Chapter April 6 at St. Philip's-in-the-Hills Episcopal Church, where Mr. Buchhauser is the organist. After the program guests and members of the Guild assembled in the parish hall, where refreshments were served by Mrs. Buchhauser. The evening's program was concluded with a business meeting. Dean Helen W. Summers presiding. Announcements were made of the hymn festival May 16 by massed choirs from all the churches in Tucson. The last concert of the 1953-54 concert series will be played by Virgil Fox May 2, co-sponsored by the Tucson Festival Society and the Southern Arizona Chapter.—MARTHA HASKINS HUME, Secretary.

ARKANSAS CHAPTER—The chapter held a dinner at Christ Episcopal Church, Little Rock, March 9. Several new members were introduced. The following program was played by students of Kenneth Osborne, head of the organ department at the State University at Fayetteville: Prelude in B minor, Bach, and Three Chorale Preludes, Buxtehude (Carolyn Westerfield); Toccata and Fugue in D minor, Bach, and Sonata I, Hindemith (Carolyn Frith); Scherzo, Vierne, and Chorale No. 2, in B minor, Franck (Ernest Ligon); Two Chorale Preludes (Schubler), Bach, and Fugue in G minor, Dupré (Dorothy Ann Reea).—MRS. H. C. HARRIS, Publicity Chairman.

ROCKY MOUNTAIN CHAPTER—An interesting discussion of chorale preludes was led by Mrs. Virginia Herrmann at the meeting of the Rocky Mountain Chapter April 4 in one of the studios of Colorado Woman's College, Denver. Mrs. Herrmann began with the foundation of the chorale in some of the folk-tunes and minstrel melodies, which were adapted in some of the beautiful chorales now heard. Her outline and discussion included the development of the chorale from Samuel Scheidt (1586-1654) to the modern interpretation of the chorale. A group of young women from the college sang, followed by the organ prelude played by Mrs. Herrmann. The program included: "Da Jesus an dem Kreuze stund," by Scheidt; "Vom Himmel hoch da komm' ich her," Pachelbel; "Wenn wir in höchsten nöthen sein," Bach; "Von Gott will ich nicht lassen," Buxtehude; "Herzlich thut mich verlangen," Brahms; "O Haupt voll Blut und Wunden," Pepping, also by Flor Peeters; and "O Lamm Gottes," with two settings of Bach. After the meeting Mrs. Herrmann served refreshments to the group.

WASHINGTON CHAPTER—The Washington Chapter held its annual banquet Feb. 8 at the Sorrento Hotel, Seattle. The Rt. Rev. Stephen F. Bayne, Jr., Bishop of the Episcopal Diocese of Olympia, was the principal speaker. Members of the chapter rounded out the program with a barber shop quartet, a flute solo and a highly amusing mock wedding skit. Dean Lois Peterson and Eugene F. Rye proved very genial hosts of a gala evening. . . . March 2 Jean Langlais thrilled Seattle in a recital at the University Methodist Temple. . . . March 8 the regular chapter meeting was conducted at the First Christian Church. Mrs. Helen L. McNicoll, organist of the church, spoke on "Books of Interest to the Organist." Miss Laura M. Salmon received the $150 scholarship award provided by the chapter for promising organists.—MRS. JAMES B. PIERSON, Publicity.

SPOKANE CHAPTER—The March meeting of the Spokane Chapter was held March 26 at the Northwestern Organ and Chime Studio, Fox Theater Building. A program of discussion and illustration of the organ music of Bach was conducted by Professor George Larkham Scott of the music faculty of Washington State College, Pullman, Wash. Professor Scott is a member of the Spokane Chapter and familiar to Spokane musicians as a concert organist. He studied under the late Frank Miles of Spokane and also at the New England Conservatory of Music. He was formerly professor of organ at Illinois Wesleyan University. His most recent recital was at Washington State College and in April he is to play on the three-manual organ recently installed at the University of Montana in Missoula. Host for the evening's program was Jean Anthony Greif.—MRS. GEORGE W. BUTLER, Dean.

MASON CITY, IOWA—The chapter met March 16 at St. John's Episcopal Church. Mrs. Wallace Allen introduced two chapter members, Mrs. Roscoe Patton and Mrs. J. E. Stinehart, who presented a program on the three-manual Reuter organ. Roll-call was answered by "The favorite composition of my congregation."—VIE HUSTED, Registrar.

MISSOURI CHAPTER, ST. LOUIS—Robert Oldham, official organist of Monticello College and director of music at the University Methodist Church in St. Louis, presented a program, assisted by Betty Dustin Myers, flutist and faculty member of the music department. Mr. Oldham performed with the assurance and freedom of a thorough and prepared musician. The program: "Plein Jeu," DuMège; Gavotta, Martini; "O Sacred Head," Kuhnau; "As Jesus Stood beside the Cross," Scheidt; "O Man, Thy Grievous Sin Bemoan" and B minor Prelude and Fugue, Bach; "Poem for Flute and Piano," Griffes; "Dreams," McAnis; "Suite Modale," Peeters.—ROBERT V. CLOUTIER, Publicity.

DELAWARE CHAPTER—The March meeting was held in the social hall of the Lower Brandywine Presbyterian Church, Wilmington, March 15. A turkey dinner served by the women's organization of the church preceded the business meeting. Dean Sarah Hudson White read Guild letters pertaining to the biennial national convention and other interesting Guild affairs. Greetings from the meeting were sent to our new student group at Wesley Junior College, Dover, Del. Dean White announced that the next meeting will be a chapter rally to be held in Dover on the evening of May 3. Miss M. Caroline Budd is in charge of the program. Dr. Harold Springer introduced Barton Wilson, who showed interesting pictures of the West.—CAROLYN CONLY CANN, Registrar.

have recently been used in such diverse situations as the 1950 Bach Festival in Vienna by Paul Hindemith; the Bach B minor Mass with chorus and orchestra in Carnegie Hall conducted by Alfred Greenfield; with the same work conducted by Herbert von Karajan in Vienna; in ensemble music by Lady Susi Jeans; in the 1950 Mozart Festival in Salzburg; also for accompaniment of a 70-piece orchestra and a 300-voice choir in Vienna and Milan.

Miss Claire Coci, who will play the Organ Series commemorating the opening of the Grace Rainey Rogers Auditorium of the Metropolitan Museum of Art, New York City, on May 12th, 14th, 17th, 19th, 21st, 24th, 26th and 28th, from 3 to 4 p.m., affording an excellent opportunity for organists and music lovers to hear the Rieger Organ as played by a great artist.

The Rieger Organ, selected by the Metropolitan Museum of Art, New York City, for their magnificent new Grace Rainey Auditorium, is a full two-manual-and-pedal organ with each division tonally complete. It is an orthodox and straight organ containing 21 registers and 24 ranks totalling over 1200 pipes. The Rieger Organ can be installed in one day, requires no structural changes, can be moved like a concert grand piano. Its price is less than half that of other instruments of comparable tone quality and equal number of pipes, thus offering churches, schools, auditoriums and homes a pipe organ of highest quality at modest cost.

MARKS 25 YEARS AT CHURCH

In honor of the twenty-fifth anniversary of Ethel Sleeper Brett as organist of the First Methodist Church, Sacramento, Cal., recognition of her work was made at the Sunday morning service April 4 and a reception in her honor was held afterwards. The church was specially decorated for the occasion and Mrs. Brett received a large bouquet of red roses at the service and a silver platter at the reception. A tribute to Mrs. Brett entitled "Twenty-five Years of Heavenly Harmony" appeared in the church bulletin. The Rev. Robert A. Panzer wrote: "Gabriel had better be mighty good on that trumpet of his or we are going to be disappointed after hearing Mrs. Brett at the organ!"

Since April, 1929, Mrs. Brett has presided at the console of the three-manual Reuter at the First Methodist Church, leading church in the Northern California

Conference. Mrs. Brett ranks as one of the outstanding organists of the Pacific coast. She was a soloist at the national A.G.O. convention in Pittsburgh in 1936 and has been soloist at several of the California State Music Teachers' Association conventions. She has played a number of recitals at Stanford University, besides recitals in Los Angeles and San Francisco and other cities throughout the state.

Mrs. Brett received her early piano training from Miss Florence Linthicum of Los Angeles and Uda Waldrop of San Francisco. She studied the organ with Dr. Warren D. Allen at Stanford University.

Mrs. Brett has been active in musical circles in Sacramento. She has played on many of the programs of the Sacramento Saturday Club, one of the best-known music clubs of the West, appearing as pianist and accompanist as well as organist. She was the president of that organization for two years. Mrs. Brett is a charter member of the Sacramento Chapter of the A.G.O. and served as dean for three years.

NOTABLE WORKS PERFORMED

BY ARNOLD DANN AND CHOIR

Under the direction of Arnold Dann performances of several notable works took place in Lent at Bethesda-by-the-Sea Church, Palm Beach, Fla. Part 1 of Bach's "St. Matthew Passion" was heard April 4 and Part 2 was sung April 11. A large congregation was present March 21 when Mr. Dann led his choir in Verdi's Requiem. The Palm Beach County Chapter of the A.G.O. sponsored a choral evening and recital at Bethesda-by-the-Sea March 15. Another recital was given by Mr. Dann March 7. His program on that occasion was as follows: Toccata and Fugue in D minor, Bach; "Evening Song," Bairstow; "Memorial Chapel," Mulet; Prelude to "Parsifal," Wagner; "Pastorale Cantilene," Guilmant; Finale, Dupré.

BIGGS AND PORTATIVE
HEARD IN WASHINGTON

ORGAN MAKES MAIDEN TOUR

Recital at Library of Congress on Two-Manual Portable Instrument Built by Schlicker Elicits Praise from Critic.

The portable organ built by the Schlicker Organ Company for E. Power Biggs made its "maiden tour" in March for a first away-from-home appearance, at the Library of Congress in the nation's capital. The recital took place March 5 in the Coolidge Auditorium and was sponsored by the Elizabeth Sprague Coolidge foundation. Mr. Biggs was assisted by a group of string players.

That Washington musicians were impressed by both instrument and performer is shown in the critique written by Day Thorpe for the Evening Star. He said, in part: "It was an instrument obviously to the taste of the large audience present, and it was certainly to my taste too. You could hear all the music going on. Scales were crisp and clear, and apparently every stop had a rare characteristic of being well-defined throughout its whole register."

The organ which the builder calls a "portative," contains the following stops: Gedeckt, 8 ft.; quintadena, 8 ft.; principal, 4 ft.; nazard, 2 2/3 ft.; rohrflöte, 2 ft.; mixture, 3 ranks; zimbél, 2 ranks; untersatz, 16 ft.; gross gedeckt, 8 ft.; bourdon, 4 ft.; rankett, 16 ft., and krummhorn, 8 ft. These are distributed over the two manuals and pedal. The only extensions are the pedal gedeckt and bourdon. There are two general combination pistons which are adjustable during performance. The pedal untersatz pipes are attached to one another in two units and they serve as a tone reflecting shell for the other ranks. A trailer which houses the entire instrument when it is dismantled was built to specification and is attached to the owner's automobile.

PORTABLE ORGAN STARTING ON ITS JOURNEY

Mr. Biggs' program at the Library of Congress was as follows: Concerto in C major, Haydn; Concerto 3, Soler; Three Sonatas, Mozart; Partita for violin, viola and organ, Piston; Sonata 2, Hindemuth; Concerto 10, Handel. The Piston work was written especially for the Coolidge Auditorium organ.

After the Washington recital Mr. and Mrs. Biggs left for a European tour, which began April 21 in Portugal and will end June 29 in Iceland. Other countries in which he will play are England, Holland, Germany, Denmark, Norway, Sweden, Finland and France.

D. DeWITT WASSON, M.S.M., directed the choir of the Mount Vernon Place Methodist Church, Baltimore, in a performance of Brahms' Requiem March 21. The service was a memorial to Richard Ross.

J. ALFRED SCHEHL DIRECTS

CHOIR IN ORIGINAL WORKS

J. Alfred Schehl's motets "In Monte Oliveti" and "Velum Templi" were among the works sung by his choir of men and boys at Tenebrae services in Holy Week at St. Lawrence Church, Cincinnati. On Easter Day Mr. Schehl's "Missa Paschalis" was heard at the solemn high mass. The choir gave performances of Dubois' "Seven Last Words" on Palm Sunday and Tuesday in Holy Week.

Mr. Schehl's organ composition Prelude, Theme and Variations, Fughetta and Finale was played by Edwin Arthur Kraft, F.A.G.O., at his recital April 4 in Trinity Cathedral, Cleveland.

KALAMAZOO CONCERTS DRAW
CROWDS AND HIGH PRAISE

Capacity audiences and more than 100 out-of-town visitors attended the Kalamazoo, Mich., eighth annual Bach festival March 26, 27 and 28, sponsored by Kalamazoo College. The event was again under the direction of Henry Overley. Guest artists included Julius Klein, gambist; Dr. Heinrich Fleischer, organist; Leslie Chabay, tenor; Elizabeth Wysor, contralto; Edward Stack, bass-baritone; Agatha Lewis, soprano; Andrew Foldi, bass, and Grace Castagnetta, pianist.

The principal choral work performed was the "St. John Passion," March 27. The first concert, March 26, consisted of the soprano aria from Cantata 68 ("Mein gläubiges Herze"), a complete performance of Cantata 71 ("Gott ist mein König"), the Sonata in G major for viola da gamba and clavier, and the Magnificat. On March 28 Miss Castagnetta played the Chromatic Fantasie and Fugue, two preludes and fugues, the French Suite in G major, a group of improvisations and the Concerto in D minor, in which she was assisted by a string orchestra. Dr. Fleischer was heard in two organ numbers before the Passion performance.

In reporting the opening concert the Kalamazoo Gazette said: "The audience which filled Stetson Chapel to the doors roared out its applause for a full three minutes at the end of the performance. The excellence of the music merited the response." Of the "St. John Passion" the critic wrote: "The chorus gave a majestic, well-balanced prologue to open the oratorio. Kalamazoo has a right to be proud of the finely disciplined group of more than 100 voices and twenty-five instruments. It was a beautiful and moving setting for the parade of recitatives and arias to come."

H. WINTHROP MARTIN, organist and choirmaster of St. Paul's Church, Syracuse, N. Y., directed his choir march 7 in a performance of Titcomb's "The Road to Calvary." The work was performed from manuscript.

ORGAN INSTITUTE OFFERS

COURSE IN IMPROVISATION

The Organ Institute in Andover, Mass., will present an expanded program at its summer session from Aug. 2 to 21, offering organists a choice of several curricula. Instruction will be given in organ, choral conducting and improvisation.

Improvisation is the newest feature. The course, given for the first time this year, will be called "keyboard musicianship and improvisation." Rowland W. Dunham, dean emeritus of the College of Music of the University of Colorado, and Arthur E. Hall of the department of music of Rice Institute will be in charge of the course. It will be practical and elementary, but students who are qualified can do advanced work.

Continuing the choral school, organized last year, Ifor Jones, conductor of the Bach festival at Bethlehem, Pa., will emphasize the technique of conducting in his classes. Homer Mowe, voice teacher at Yale University, will include special instruction in voice development and will give individual lessons to directors and organists who seek a more thorough knowledge of singing. Alfred Nash Patterson, conductor of the Chorus Pro Musica of Boston, will introduce the class to less well-known and modern choral compositions. The director of the Organ Institute, Arthur Howes, will present a study of English choral music centering in selected works of Henry Purcell and Orlando Gibbons.

The established master classes in organ will be conducted by E. Power Biggs, Arthur Howes and Arthur Poister. There will be public performances by these instructors Friday and Saturday evenings. The fine arts string orchestra, conducted by Mr. Howes, will appear in the Saturday evening concerts, with organ soloists. The organ repertoire to be studied in the master classes includes a number of compositions by Bach, two fantasias by Mozart, three chorales by Franck, eleven chorale preludes by Brahms, three sonatas by Hindemith and the Sowerby Symphony in G major.

A limited number of scholarships in the amount of $50 will be awarded to highly recommended students who would be unable to attend without such assistance.

BETHLEHEM BACH FESTIVAL

WILL BE HELD THIS MONTH

The annual Bach festival at Bethlehem, Pa., will be held May 13 to 15 and May 21 and 22. Two well-known singers are participating this year for the first time. They are Janet Southwick, soprano, and John McCollum, tenor. The new concertmaster of the Philadelphia Symphony Orchestra, Jacob Krachmalnick, will lead the festival orchestra. Dr. Ifor Jones will again conduct the chorus and Vernon de Tar is to be at the organ. Tickets for the first weekend performances were sold out before the middle of April.

THE UNIVERSITY OF CHICAGO Choir sang Bach's "Passion according to St. John" April 11 in Rockefeller Memorial Chapel under the direction of Richard Vikstrom. An orchestra of twenty pieces assisted. A panel discussion on the "St. John Passion" took place April 4 at the Oriental Institute. Jaroslav Pelikan, Heinrich Fleischer and Richard Vikstrom participated.

IS THE CHOICE OF WISDOM

The selection of an organ is a decision of prime importance. The wisdom of your choice will affect your church for years to come. How can you choose judiciously amidst all the confusing claims and counter-claims of competing manufacturers?

It's wise to remember this: In every field of endeavor, there is one recognized leader—one who puts his whole heart and soul into lifting his handiwork above the commonplace, so that it wins the preference of those who appreciate the best.

The KILGEN is the overwhelming choice of so many leading organists and churches. For seven generations the name KILGEN has symbolized the pinnacle of the organ builder's art. Whether you require an instrument of modest or majestic size, make any comparisons you wish. We believe you will come to agree with thousands of other discriminating music-lovers . . . If it's a KILGEN, nothing finer can be said of an organ.

Mr. du Pont and the Organ

When one of the world's wealthiest men, who is neither an organist nor professionally engaged in music, makes a great contribution to promote interest in the organ it is something that classifies as news. When the man and his family had laid the foundation of a colossal fortune in the manufacture of gunpowder it enhances the interest of all of us. This in brief is the story of the life of Pierre S. du Pont, which came to a close in the month just past, with his death April 4 at the advanced age of 84 years. Mr. du Pont was the oldest living member of a family known throughout the world for its invention and manufacture of a large number of products that have revolutionized various forms of industry, but to whom the organ was one of his principal forms of relaxation.

Back in the 1920s Mr. du Pont enlarged a conservatory of fantastic proportions and rare beauty on his estate, Longwood, near Kennett Square, Pa., a suburb of Wilmington, Del., headquarters of the vast du Pont industries. Here, in the midst of plants and flowers from all parts of the world, with canary birds providing music, Mr. du Pont installed an organ to match the size of the building. In its issue of May 1, 1929, THE DIAPASON announced that a contract had been awarded to the Aeolian Company to build the organ, an instrument of 153 ranks of pipes and resources of 10,010 pipes, 364 percussion tones and a grand piano. The specification was prepared by Firmin Swinnen, Mr. du Pont's private organist, after Mr. du Pont had heard large organs in every part of the country for two years. The new instrument replaced one of seventy-six ranks built by the same company in 1921, which no longer was adequate for the enlarged conservatories. This instrument was presented to the University of Delaware at Newark.

Where Mr. du Pont's plans differed from those of many wealthy men of the day, such as Charles M. Schwab and Senator Clark of Montana, who had large organs in their New York homes, was in the scale on which it was to be shared with the public. The Longwood gardens and conservatories were opened to the public every day of the year except the second, fourth and, when it occurred, the fifth Sunday of every month. On the other two Sundays a small admission fee was charged, the proceeds going to Wilmington hospitals. The roads leading to Kennett Square from every direction were usually crowded on the open Sundays with visitors eager to see the estate and to hear Mr. Swinnen, an outstanding organist whose programs attracted thousands. The entire plan was calculated to share with the people the enjoyment to be derived from a rare picture and to make many thousands learn to appreciate the beauty of organ music.

The day of great organs in the homes of American men of wealth has come to an end with the death of such men as Carnegie, Clark and Schwab, but it is to be hoped that what has been established at Longwood will not go the way of all flesh. What the man who was president of a chemical empire since 1915 and of the General Motors Corporation from 1920 to 1923, and who was instrumental in furnishing the allies in the first world war with one and a half billion pounds of explosives established should survive for the benefit of future generations.

New Issues for the Choir

By JAMES S. DENDY, Mus.B.

John Leo Lewis' brilliant anthem "We Sing to God," which was awarded the 1953 H. W. Gray prize by the American Guild of Organists and which has just been published by Gray, has so many things to recommend it that it is difficult to know where to begin a discussion of its merits. Probably the logical place is the text, which was written by Christopher Smart in 1765. Here we have a text by one of the few religious poets of the last three centuries whose works are of a literary quality which may be compared critically with the writing of the great secular poets—a text so strong that it makes some of the more celebrated efforts of writers a century later seem puny.

But even more important is that Mr. Lewis has succeeded in matching the power and breadth of these words with music that is alive—music which speaks in the idiom of our generation. And it is practical music with a conspicuous absence of intricate rhythms and voice leading. It could be performed by an amateur choir of sixteen voices, but it is worthy of the efforts of a concert chorus of fifty voices.

Having mentioned all these aspects of "We Sing to God," we may now discuss its most striking feature—the organ "accompaniment." While the choir is reading relatively simple material, the organist is engaged in playing a scintillating toccata, scored on three staves, which will definitely require some practice but will reward all his efforts. The brightness of the opening section is appropriately contrasted by a middle section which is antiphonal between the choir and soft string stops. This leads to a "duet" between oboe and men's voices, with only a pedal ostinato as accompaniment. The third section recapitulates the first, but the fast sixteenth-note motion of the toccata is reduced to eighth-note motion. There is a grand build-up near the end, but no divisi in the choral parts until the final chord.

We have seen few modern anthems which utilize the resources of the organ so well or which show such good sense in staying within practical limitations of a church choir. We have one suggestion for interpretation: Following the traditional concept of the French toccata, why not incorporate the swell reed chorus (box partly closed) in the toccata sections? This differs from the indicated registration, but it probably is worth trying.

There are two new books of descants—"Twenty Hymn-tune Descants," by C. S. Lang (Novello), and "Descants on Ten Famous Hymns," by Carl Licht (Harold Flammer, Inc.). Mr. Lang's descants are dignified, easy to sing and musically above reproach. None of them is florid—in fact, one feels that in some cases they are almost unduly restrained. Some of the tunes used by him which are best known in America are "Ein feste Burg," "Leoni," "Nicaea," "Merton," "Moscow," "Nun danket," "Old Hundredth," "Lauda Anima," "Regent Square," "St. Anne," "St. Columba," "St. George" and "St. Denio." One would like to see a little more imagination in Mr. Licht's descants. He sometimes resorts simply to doubling the alto part an octave high. And we can hardly pass over the chromatic he has introduced in "Silent Night" without mentioning that it is unfortunate. The tunes he uses are familiar to Protestants of all denominations.

David S. Cooper's setting of Psalm 150 is a little beyond the average parish choir and too lengthy for the usual Sunday morning anthem, so we do not feel that it can be discussed in detail. Some of his writing is of an experimental sort and it is to be hoped that this number will receive performances by the larger choruses, because it is obviously the work of a serious and competent modern composer. It is published with an organ reduction of the original orchestration, which was for three trumpets, three trombones, organ, timpani and percussions. The publisher is Edward B. Marks Music Corporation.

Among H. T. FitzSimons' new publications are two anthems by W. Glen Darst—"Lord God of Hosts" and "Awake, My Soul." Both are for mixed voices accompanied, the first with an optional baritone solo and the second containing a soprano solo which occupies a page and a half. In spite of the soprano solo, your reviewer finds more in "Awake, My Soul" to recommend it than in "Lord God of Hosts," chiefly because the former number shows more originality. In both numbers Mr. Darst adheres to styles of form and content which are not as popular today as they once were.

Also on the FitzSimons list is a number by Camil Van Hulse, "Behold, Bless Ye the Lord," and a new anthem by Will James, "A Song of Praise." The Van Hulse number is for mixed voices and organ, accompaniment scored on three staves. This is an interesting composition by a man who has gained a wide reputation in the last few years. It is of medium difficulty and only five pages in length. Mr. James' anthem is for SATB a cappella. Most of the writing is chordal rather than polyphonic and harmonies do not venture beyond the confines of the usual.

Lest our readers conclude that we are interested only in music that is harmonically "venturesome," we should like to point out some numbers which we can recommend heartily, but which are conservative and simple from a musical point of view. Two such numbers which recently have come to our attention are "Jesu, the Very Thought of Thee," by Desmond Ratcliffe, and "Preserve Us, O Lord," by Wilfred Holland. Both are from Novello & Co., available at the British American Music Company in Chicago and H. W. Gray in New York. Both these men know how to use traditional harmonic material in an imaginative way. The Ratcliffe number has a special appeal because it is a simple, melodic unison setting which will be useful for children's or junior choirs. This does not imply that it should be overlooked by adult groups. The "Preserve Us, O Lord" also makes much of its appeal through simplicity. It is scored for SATB with organ, beginning with a unison passage for men's voices. Both numbers are four pages in length.

The text for C. S. Lang's "Hail Thee, Festival Day" (Novello & Co.) is a combination of part of the Whit-sunday version and part of the Easter version of the hymn of the same title. The publisher's notation says "Suitable for Harvest or general use." The setting is unison and worth looking into if you want a change from the version found in the 1940 Hymnal. The same publisher has issued two more unison settings which no doubt will interest some of our readers: "Hail, Gladdening Light," Lang, and "Ye Choir Above," George Dyson.

EDWARD H. HOLLOWAY, JR., and Walter E. Wilson of Indianapolis announce the merger of the Holloway Company and the Layton-Wilson Pipe Organ Company. The new organization is named Holloway-Wilson, Inc.

Looking Back into the Past

Forty years ago the following news was recorded in the issue of May 1, 1914—

The sum of $500,000 was presented to the Cathedral of St. John the Divine in New York City by Frederick G. Bourne for the endowment of a choir school.

Eric DeLamarter was appointed organist and director at the Fourth Presbyterian Church, Chicago, to preside over the new Skinner four-manual organ.

Palmer Christian, organist and director at the Kenwood Evangelical Church, Chicago, played the dedicatory recital on the new Skinner organ in that church April 16.

A Casavant organ of 107 speaking stops and four manuals, one of the largest on the American continent, was opened in St. Paul's Cathedral at Toronto April 29. Healey Willan presided over the new instrument.

Oberlin College received a gift of $25,000 from Frederick Norton Finney of Milwaukee for an organ to be installed in Finney Memorial Chapel.

Twenty-five years ago, according to the issue of May 1, 1929—

New four-manual organs the specifications of which were published were the large Aeolian for the conservatories of Pierre S. du Pont at Longwood, Pa.; the Austin for the First Congregational Church of Meriden, Conn.; the Skinner for the war memorial building at Cedar Rapids, Iowa, and the organ built by Walcker for the Kaiserplatz Church in Bonn. These were supplemented by a long list of three-manuals.

The contract for the huge organ to be installed in the Atlantic City convention hall was awarded to Midmer-Losh, Inc., April 25 on a bid of $347,200.

The large four-manual organ in the Memphis Auditorium was opened April 9 with a recital by Charles M. Courboin. This instrument, built by Kimball, was described as the largest in the South.

After a recital by Rollo F. Maitland April 23 on the greatly enlarged organ in the Wanamaker store in Philadelphia, under the auspices of the Pennsylvania Chapter, A.G.O., and the American Organ Players' Club, Mr. Maitland was the guest of honor at a dinner which was a testimonial by a hundred of his associates and friends.

John E. West, noted English organist and composer, died Feb. 28 as he was conducting a concert by a male choir. Mr. West was born in 1863.

Ten years ago the following news was recorded in the issue of May 1, 1944—

Contributions from all parts of the United States were received for the fund with which the American Guild of Organists purchased a field ambulance for the army, making this a national project.

Maurice C. Rumsey, organist of the Episcopal Church of the Messiah and Incarnation, Brooklyn, N. Y., suffered a cerebral hemorrhage March 26 as he concluded his playing of the postlude at the morning service and died an hour later.

Clare L. Edwards, a well-known organist of Fort Wayne, Ind., died March 19 as the result of injuries received when he was struck by an automobile.

CLAUDE L. MURPHREE OPENS ORGAN IN FLORIDA CHURCH

Claude L. Murphree, F.A.G.O., head of the organ department at the University of Florida, gave the opening recital March 8 on a Schantz organ installed in the new edifice of the First Presbyterian Church, Gainesville, Fla. The instrument was installed as a two-manual but preparation has been made for the addition of a choir division. A set of Schulermerich carillon bells also has been installed.

The program of Mr. Murphree's recital was as follows: Overture to the "Occasional Oratorio," Handel; Arioso, Bach; Rondo in G major, Bull; Prelude, Fugue and Variation, Franck; Concert Fantasia on Scottish Airs, Mansfield; "Faith of Our Fathers," McKinley; Three Hymn Preludes, Murphree; "In Moonlight," Kinder; Caprice, Dethier.

THE JOHN HARMS CHORUS, now in its fourteenth season, will be heard in its annual concert at Town Hall, New York City, May 2. Featured soloists will be Sara Reale, coloratura soprano; Walter Carringer, tenor; Milton Kaye, pianist, and Lois Wann, obolist.

Organ Method by Germani

Fernando Germani's "Method for the Organ," part 4, book 1, is now available in an English edition from the publisher, Casa Musicale A. de Santis, Rome, Italy. This particular volume is on the art of registration, and it proves to be one of the most valuable guide and reference books seen in a long time. Mr. Germani's idea is that one cannot registrate intelligently without a thorough knowledge of the instruments for which the various composers wrote. This is not a new idea, but it is the first time that a teacher has issued such comprehensive information under one cover.

Most of the book is taken up with organ specifications. Not only does Mr. Germani list the stops, but he discusses the limitations and special qualities of organs of various periods and gives such information as the pedal ranges. There are long sections devoted to the organs of Italy, France, Germany, England, Spain and America. To Americans the most interesting sections probably will be those on Italian and Spanish organs because so little information is available about these instruments. Photographs of many of the organs are reproduced. There is a wide selection, ranging from the organ played by Claudio Merulo (sixteenth century) and a Spanish-built instrument of 1549 to the Mormon Tabernacle organ as rebuilt by Aeolian-Skinner in 1948. One does feel that Mr. Germani should have included more of the American instruments built in the last ten years, but he makes up for this by listing so many organs from other countries about which we have little information.

Mr. Germani's book runs to 200 pages. We believe that any serious student of the organ will find it a worthwhile investment.

ORGAN BY AUSTIN IS OPENED
IN GREENSBORO, N. C., CHURCH

The First Baptist Church of Greensboro, N. C., sponsored Kathryn E. Hodgkin in a recital Jan. 31 on the recently-installed three-manual Austin organ. This was the first formal recital played on the instrument. Mrs. Hodgkin chose the following numbers for her program: Prelude, Fugue and Chaconne, Buxtehude; "I Call to Thee, Lord Jesus Christ" and "Jesus, Joy of Man's Desiring," Bach; Toccata and Fugue in D minor, Bach; Chorale in A minor, Franck; "Romance sans Paroles," Bonnet; "Carillon," DeLamarter; Toccata, Widor.

MARJORIE BRADBURY WINS
ORGAN CONTEST IN CHICAGO

Marjorie L. Bradbury, a pupil of Frederick L. Marriott, won first place in the American Society of Musicians contest held in Chicago April 5. The society will sponsor Mrs. Bradbury in a recital at an early date. She is a graduate of North Park College and at present is a senior at the American Conservatory of Music in Chicago. Last June Mrs. Bradbury won a competition at the American Conservatory and played the organ at the school's commencement in Orchestra Hall. She has appeared on numerous radio and television programs at Moody Bible Institute. Mrs. Bradbury is organist of Redeemer Covenant Church in Beverly Hills, where her husband, Robert, is associate pastor.

EDWIN GRASSE, BRILLIANT
BLIND VIRTUOSO, DIES AT 69

Edwin Grasse, blind violinist, organist and composer, died April 8 at his home in New York City. His age was 69 years. Mr. Grasse occupied a unique place in the concert world. He was probably the only blind man who ever gained fame as a virtuoso of both the organ and the violin.

Mr. Grasse was blind from birth. He had so fine an ear for music that at the age of 3 he was found to possess absolute pitch and could identify the works of great composers. When he was 5 his father, Louis, gave him a violin. He was able at that time to play Beethoven passages on the piano.

After studying violin with Carl Hauser, Mr. Grasse entered the Brussels Conservatory in 1899. He won first prize there the next year. In 1901 he received the Prix de Capacite, which had not been given for ten years. Upon his return to New York Mr. Grasse studied organ under Daniel R. Philippi, who was at that time assistant to T. Tertius Noble at St. Thomas' Church. Mr. Grasse made his musical debut in Berlin on Feb. 22, 1902, and then toured many cities on the continent.

In America Mr. Grasse was invited to play recitals on some of the most notable organs in the country. He also made a recital tour with Helen Keller. Mr. Grasse's compositions have been widely played. His organ works included several sonatas and many shorter pieces. His violin compositions have appeared on the programs of Kreisler, Heifetz, Maude Powell and other well-known artists.

Mr. Grasse was active as a musician until 1940, when ill health obliged him to halt recital appearances.

"New Discoveries" as to Bach Playing Amaze and Amuse

Boulder, Colo., April 10, 1954—Dear Mr. Gruenstein:

Recent "discoveries" of the correct manner of playing the music of Bach would lead younger organists of today to believe that past practices must have been appalling. Those of us who were trained in those dark days at the beginning of the century read these erudite instructions with amazement and amusement.

It is simply not true that the really adequate organists of fifty years ago had no knowledge of the fundamental philosophy of this music. In my own case I was given a perception of the principles involved in present discussions at the hands of the eminent Boston organist, George E. Whiting. Presence of dynamic variety inherent in the music itself, the use of mass ensemble effects rather than color exploitation, insistent rhythmic surge, subtle rubato where appropriate for accentuation purposes, discrimination in the use of swell pedals limited to appropriate lyric types of movement—these are a few of the "new" procedures that are proposed. Widor seems to be relegated to a classification of fossils whose perceptiveness must be regarded as quite impossible. I have not seen Mr. Farnam's name mentioned but many will recall he was considered as "cold" in his restraint mainly because of his "traditional" way of playing Bach, in the fugue particularly.

Apparently some musicologists have made some research into writings of early musicians which appear to be in contradiction of the methods of some organists of today. What they do not know is the exact practices of earlier days before we had musicologists. The Gesellschaft was available in 1904 and the original Peters edition commonly used was quite meticulous in its agreement. That first-class musicians then could not deduce the secrets of proper interpretation would not be surprising.

There was a period when there was a decided tendency to "romanticize" all organ music by means of luscious tone coloring in conformance to the type of instrument so common in America. Such treatment of organ music was perhaps so general as to draw the inference that the true basis of eighteenth century musical creations for the instrument had been quite forgotten and probably nonexistent.

Pupils of Widor will recall that the old gentleman insisted on a highly rhythmical performance with accents on the important notes by slight rubato. His use of the swell pedal was limited. While he sometimes mentioned his musical genealogy from Bach through Kittle, Hesse and Lemmens, this was by no means an obsession. To infer that he was ignorant of the stylistic conventions of hundred years ago would be quite preposterous.

Many of us are not a little impatient with the pronouncements of what approaches musical imbecility on the part of "authorities" whose actual knowledge of the technique of playing and the fundamentals of musical structure we question. It is so easy to expound theories on the basis of extensive reading about musical matters. It would be interesting to hear a demonstration by some of these persons. While there have been some good results from these dissertations of wisdom, the claim to originality is not too acceptable. Right now we are witnessing the exploitation of things German in the organ, both the instrument and the literature. Romanticism, a heritage of the "orchestral-minded nineteenth century," must disappear. French and English influences are to be obliterated. Instead we are urged to propagate those strikingly beautiful examples of the classic organ upon which no music since 1800 would be feasible. Will the profession ever agree to embrace such a one-sided program? My own feeling is that the pendulum has already begun a swing to a sensible midway point which will not accept either the overly sentimental or the mixture-dominated "baroque".

Yours sincerely,
ROWLAND W. DUNHAM.

BERLIOZ'S REQUIEM MASS was performed at the Eastman Theater by the Rochester, N. Y., Oratorio Society April 10. J. Theodore Hollenbach directed the chorus of nearly 300 voices, which was assisted by members of the Rochester Philharmonic Orchestra. One of the four brass bands called for in the score was placed in the balcony.

$1,000 GIFT TO KNOX COLLEGE IS MEMORIAL TO ORGANIST

An endowment fund in memory of Mary Seraphia Envall has been established at Knox College, Galesburg, Ill., by Emil Dalberg, her nephew. Mr. Dalberg's gift of $1,000 has been placed in a special fund to provide books about music for the college library. Miss Envall was a native of Galesburg and an alumna of Knox College. She served as organist of the First Lutheran Church there for nearly fifty-three years. Miss Envall died Sept. 11, 1952.

Mr. Dalberg, the donor, has been for many years a supporter of Knox College music activities as well as a participant in the Galesburg Community Chorus and the Galesburg Musicians' Club. He is a member of the Galesburg Daily Register-Mail staff.

THE FIRST PACIFIC NORTHWEST performance of the Maurice Durufle Requiem was given by the senior choir of St. Mary's Episcopal Church in Eugene, Ore., on Passion Sunday afternoon, April 4. Milton Dietrich, organist-choirmaster and member of the University of Oregon school of music faculty, conducted and Lawrence B. Maves was guest organist. Soloists were Ardyth Rose and Earl Anderson. The 'cello obbligato to the "Pie Jesu" was played by Keith Cockburn. The Requiem was enthusiastically received by the large congregation present and numerous requests were made for its repetition.

INFLATION

INFLATION causes many changes which have to be met by various remedies. Our organ industry has been hit hard, owing to the fact that hand work and craftsmanship constitute such a large proportion of the final cost of a pipe organ.

The mass production industries can partly counteract the effects of inflation by larger assembly lines and more and better machinery. There is no such remedy for the Organ Builder, as the pipe organ has always reflected the individuality of the builder, and the combined skills of his craftsmen. These craftsmen cannot be speeded up because workmanship suffers. Prices cannot be raised indefinitely, as every raise in price lowers the total volume of business done, and this in turn throws skilled men out of work.

The answer to this problem must be found, as it is unthinkable that these skills acquired over the centuries in producing instruments for religious worship should be lost.

TORONTO CENTRE—The Toronto Centre sponsored a recital March 30 by the eminent French organist and composer Jean Langlais in Yorkminster Baptist Church. He presented an all-French program, including a group of his own compositions. The stirring opening number was the Finale by Cesar Franck, followed by works by Tournemire, Messiaen and Alain. A well-contrasted group of his own compositions led up to the climax of the program, the improvisation of a large-scale work on several themes offered by organists present. A social half hour in the church hall afforded an opportunity for many to meet M. Langlais.—RUSSELL CRIMP.

HAMILTON CENTRE—On March 24 the Hamilton Centre presented Bruce Prince-Joseph in an organ and harpsichord recital at the Central Presbyterian Church. It was Mr. Prince-Joseph's first appearance before a Canadian audience. Great interest was shown in the seldom-heard harpsichord with its delicate tone qualities and the sensitive manner in which Mr. Prince-Joseph displayed his mastery of that instrument. The program consisted of: Suite in F minor, Handel (harpsichord); Concerto in C major (No. 4), Chorale Prelude, "I Call to Thee," Prelude and Fugue in G major, Bach (organ); Sonata in D major, Haydn (harpsichord); Fantasia in minor, Mozart (organ); Italian Concerto, Bach (harpsichord).—N. PLUMMER, Vice-Chairman.

ST. CATHARINES CENTRE—A meeting of the St. Catharines Centre was held Sunday evening, April 4, at the Queen Street Baptist Church. The Rev. Ralph J. Cummings, minister of the church, gave an interesting talk on various aspects of church music. It was decided to hold a choir festival on the evening of Tuesday, May 18. A nominating committee consisting of A. C. Hannahson (chairman), Mrs. K. Cust and B. Flummerfelt was appointed to submit a slate of officers for 1954-55 at the May meeting.—PETER W. SNYDER.

BRANTFORD CENTRE—The monthly meeting of the Brantford Centre was held March 17 in the Sydenham United Church, with a good attendance. A paper on the history of liturgical music prepared by Miss Elsie I. Senn was read by our chairman, Miss Eleanor Muir, and a discussion followed on church music, choir work, the teaching of new hymns and how to make both congregation and choir appreciate them. With the opportunities of musical training open to the children of today it is possible to have better senior and junior choirs. Discussions for enlisting new choir members were carried on. George Smale was delegated by the Brantford music festival to see if he could interest church choirs in this festival. It was suggested that a mass choir learn two or three anthems approved by the festival committee and have them adjudicated. This idea was well received. A ladies' trio composed of Mrs. R. Rendle, Mrs. J. Fennell and Miss Marion Baxter sang two sacred numbers, accompanied by Mrs. M. Cook. Mrs. Crozier was hostess for the evening, and an enjoyable social hour was spent.—ELSIE I. SENN, Secretary.

MONTREAL CENTRE—The Montreal Centre sponsored a recital March 29 by the noted French organist Jean Langlais. The recital took place in Notre Dame Church and was open to the public. Mr. Langlais included in his program a number of his own compositions and gave an admirable demonstration of his skill at improvisation.—GORDON EELSON, Secretary.

OSHAWA AND DISTRICT CENTRE—The March meeting of the Oshawa Centre was held in St. Andrew's United Church chapel. Favourite choral records were played by individual members, with descriptive comments and some group singing of Easter music. The April meeting was held at the Ontario Ladies' College, Whitby, where the members of the centre were guests of the principal, Dr. Stanley Osborne. Dr. Healey Willan was the guest speaker and his subject was "Choir Training." Dr. Willan emphasized the importance of words in singing and pointed out that plainsong is the most efficient way of combining words and music since, by its flexibility, it enables the singer to give the words their natural accentuation and tempo. Dr. Willan also analyzed the basic structure of the Tudor motets. As an example he conducted the audience in the motet "O Lord, the Maker of All Things."

In discussing the training of choirs the speaker suggested that in introducing a new work the choirmaster should explain carefully the shape of the composition. He advocated having the singers remain seated for a more relaxed performance. Dr. Willan mentioned that the curse of modern life is noise and hurry and it's also the cause of most bad singing. Refreshments were served by Dr. and Mrs. Osborne in their home at the conclusion of the talk.—MRS. G. K. DRYNAN, Secretary.

CHATHAM AND KENT COUNTY CENTRE—The Centre met at the Park Street United Church, Chatham, March 30 and elected Wilfred Woolhouse chairman and Bert Wees secretary for 1954-1955. After the business period, Mr. Woolhouse played the following program: Passacaglia and Fugue in C minor and "Be Thou Near," Bach; Bourree and Musette, Chenoweth; "La Poule," Rameau, and Toccata in D minor, Reger. He accompanied Carlyle Hancock, who sang three solos.—BET WEES, Secretary-Treasurer.

LONDON CENTRE—A meeting of the London Centre was held in the form of an organist and clergy panel discussion at the Church of St. James (Westminster), March 14. A goodly number was present and the panel was composed of clergymen and organists. The chairman of the panel, W. H. Wickett, opened the discussion with the following question: "What are the basic requirements for position of organist and choirmaster?" A discussion of hymn singing followed this. The majority felt that there should be more new hymns introduced, and more hymn singing in unison was suggested by the Rev. A. J. McQueen. Some felt that hymns were pitched too high which often caused congregational singing to drag. Most of the panel agreed that the use of secular music at weddings should be abolished. Our guest was John Cook, the well-known organist of Holy Trinity Church, Stratford-upon-Avon.—MARGARET NEEDHAM, Secretary.

WINNIPEG CENTRE—The Winnipeg Centre held its monthly meeting March 20 in St. Alban's Anglican Church. With the realization that many of our members have never seen or heard some of our own Winnipeg instruments, the executive is endeavoring to hold future meetings at their churches. At St. Alban's the new two-manual organ built by F. Radcliffe & Son of Winnipeg was accepted generally as tonally good and adequate for this building. Mr. Radcliffe was present and outlined some of the features of the organ. The second half of the meeting was devoted to a "choirmaster's workshop" at which Ronald W. Gibson, Filmer E. Hubble and Donald Leggat were the advisers. Questions discussed included the following: 1. "How can we attract young men into choirs?" 2. "How can we keep choir on pitch?" 3. "How can we keep hymns from dragging?" 4. "When separate organist and choirmaster, who controls pace hymns to be sung?"—CLAYTON E. LEE, Secretary.

CALGARY CENTRE—The Calgary Centre held a dinner meeting March 13 at the Coste House Allied Arts Centre. The clergy were invited as guests of the members. After the dinner we listened to short addresses from ministers of various denominations, giving their ideas as to the church service and just what they expect of church organists.—MRS. MADGE CLARKE, Secretary.

HALIFAX CENTER—On March 30 in All Saints' Cathedral the fifth of the series of organ recitals for this season, was played by Edwin A. Collins, Mus. B. Cantab., F.R.C.O., dean of music at Acadia University, Wolfville, N. S. Dean Collins in a well-chosen and somewhat unusual program demonstrated a sound musicianship, good technique and a sense of finish. The program began with Parry's Chorale Prelude "Christe, Redemptor Omnium." This restful piece was played with the theme brought out on a flute stop with a quiet string accompaniment. Howells' Rhapsody No. 2 was an impressive work, depicting a spirit of turmoil and unrest and pipe pedal work on a heavy reed stop. Next came an arrangement of the Andante from the String Quartet by Brahms, with excellent registration. One of the most striking interpretations was that of Elgar's Sonata in G, Op. 28. Here again a fine sense of orchestral color and tasteful registration made this performance outstanding. In an arrangement of Vaughan Williams' Largo Sostenuto from a "Sea Symphony," the organist painted a picture of the mysterious sea and mighty ocean. Turning to music by French composers, Dean Collins gave a charming performance of the Allegro Vivace by Vierne.—BERNARD A. MUNN, Secretary.

GALT CENTRE—On Saturday night, April 3, at the home of the secretary, C. P. Walker, the members of the Galt Centre enjoyed an excellent address by James Hopkirk, chairman of the Kitchener Centre. The subject was "Tudor Music and Madrigals." The speaker reviewed the history and development of Tudor music, and its influence on church music in particular. Mr. Hopkirk illustrated his talk with an excellent selection of recordings. Miss D. H. Walker served refreshments. W. U. Lethbridge and T. Morrison prepared a performance of the "Messiah" by the South Waterloo Choral Society on Good Friday in Wesley United Church, Galt.—C. P. WALKER, Secretary.

STANLEY E. WALKER, M. MUS., A.A.G.O., presented a series of nineteen weekly organ programs over KTEL in Walla Walla, Wash., between Nov. 9, 1953, and March 15, 1954. The programs originated in Columbia Auditorium on the campus of Walla Walla College. The final broadcast included the first presentation of Mr. Walker's own setting of the "Shepherd's Psalm" for soprano, choir and organ.

Mr. Walker was born and reared in Portland, Ore. He has been an organ student with Margaret Rippey, Horace Whitehouse, Harold Gleason, Harold Heeremans, Walter Eichinger and Robert Baker. Composition was studied with Rouen Fath, Anthony Doato, John Verrall and Normand Lockwood. Mr.

Walker has been on the music staff of Walla Walla College since 1935 and has been head of the music department since 1945.

THE ANTIPHONAL CHOIR and the chapel choir of the United States Naval Academy, under the direction of Donald C. Gilley, choirmaster, sang at the Washington Cathedral at the 4 p.m. service April 11, together with the cathedral choir of men and boys under the direction of Paul Callaway, cathedral organist and choirmaster. The program included: Toccata, Adagio and Fugue in C major, Bach; Magnificat in D minor, Walmsley; anthems, "Thou, Lord, Our Refuge," Mendelssohn; "Praise We Sing to Thee," Haydn; "Thou Knowest, Lord," Purcell, and "Hallelujah, Amen," Handel; Introduction and Fugue "Ad Nos, ad salutarem undam," Liszt.

LOUIS HUYBRECHTS

LOUIS HUYBRECHTS has been appointed organist and choirmaster at the Sacred Heart Cathedral in Rochester, N. Y. He goes to this position from St. Louis' Church, Buffalo, where he has served since 1952.

Mr. Huybrechts is a graduate of the Institute of Liturgical Music in Malines, Belgium, where he was a pupil of Flor Peeters. He was born near Antwerp and received his first musical instruction from his father. At the end of his six years of study at the institute Mr. Huybrechts was graduated with high honors and awarded the Lemmens-Tinck. He also studied at the Royal Conservatory of Antwerp and holds a diploma in piano from that school.

In 1951 Mr. Huybrechts resigned as organist of St. Anthony's Church, Antwerp, and came to the United States. His musical career in this country began with a series of recitals in Petoskey, Mich. Mr. Huybrechts has composed for organ, choir, piano and solo voice. He has appeared as soloist with the Antwerp Philharmonic and other orchestras.

The ORGOBLOSIMPLE
AS A FAN

The Orgoblo is like an enclosed fan. Light-weight impellers are mounted on an oversized motor shaft which has only two bearings. There are no belts or gears. Note the curved stationary vanes that direct the air —another exclusive Spencer feature that insures smooth flow and high efficiencies without surges at all loads.

It's all steel, compact and requires no special foundation. Operates efficiently at all loads without vibration or disturbing noise.

Wide clearances, low peripheral speeds, extra large shafts, and built like a bridge—with all metal, rust resistant and reinforced construction —the Orgoblo gives satisfactory service for a lifetime.

CAMIL VAN HULSE HONORED BY BELGIAN KING BAUDOUIN

Baron Silvercruijs, Belgian ambassador in Washington, notified Camil Van Hulse, composer and organist, that King Baudouin of Belgium has conferred upon him the honor of "Chevalier de l'Ordre de la Couronne" (Knight of the Order of the Crown). This is the second time that Mr. Van Hulse has been honored by the king. About thirty years ago he was made a knight of the Order of Leopold.

Camil Van Hulse, a graduate of the Royal Flemish Conservatory in Antwerp, won his first royal medal in school days. In 1923 he came to the United States and settled in Tucson, Ariz., where he founded a society of chamber music and directed the symphony orchestra. Mr. Van Hulse is best known through his organ works. At present he is organist-director of SS. Peter and Paul Church, Tucson.

THE CANTATA CHORUS of Washington, D. C., under the direction of Ronald Arnatt, gave a concert March 23 at the National Cathedral. All the works listed were performed for the first time in Washington. They included: "Missa in Honorem Sancti Dominici," Rubbra; A Wedding Anthem, "Amo Ergo Sum," Britten; "Faire Is The Heaven," Harris; "Hymnus Paradisi," Howells. Mr. Arnatt gave a recital March 28 at the cathedral. His program consisted of Francois Couperin's "Messe Pour les Paroisses."

ARCHIBALD T. DAVISON RETIRES FROM THE HARVARD FACULTY

Professor Archibald T. Davison will retire from the Harvard faculty this summer. He was conductor of the Harvard glee club for nearly a quarter of a century and both in this role and through his writing on church and choral music Professor Davison has worked to raise the standards of choral music in this country. He has been a member of the Harvard department of music since 1909 and since 1940 has been James Edward Ditson professor of music. The Harvard glee club, with the assistance of the Radcliffe Choral Society, gave two concerts late in March in honor of Professor Davison's seventieth birthday.

Professor Davison was born in Boston and received his B.A. degree from Harvard in 1906, his M.A. in 1907 and his Ph.D. in 1908. He became an assistant in the music department in 1909, university organist and choirmaster in 1910, instructor in 1912, assistant professor in 1917, associate professor in 1920 and professor in 1929. Harvard awarded Professor Davison an honorary doctor of music degree in 1948. His book, "Music Education in America," is an expression of his lifelong concern with the problems of music education, particularly in the elementary and secondary schools. In his two books on sacred music, "Protestant Church Music in America" and "Church Music," he contends that too many modern hymns and anthems are trite and inappropriate, and urges that more use be made of the large repertoire of older sacred music that is available. Among his other books are "Choral Conducting," "Technique of Choral Composition" and (with Willi Appel) "Historical Anthology of Music."

Organist Recounts Details of Forming Big Choral Library

By SETH BINGHAM

Most of us would agree that the practical aspects of our profession inevitably take up a good part of our time; and probably the discussion of these, based on actual experience, is what interests us most as bearing on our own problems, one of which is choral repertoire. That is the only reason why I venture to offer a few thoughts on building a church music library, which is what I did over a long stretch of years as musical director at the Madison Avenue Presbyterian Church in New York. Mind you, this is not a lecture on "How to Build a Church Music Library". That would be presumptuous. Church denominations vary too greatly. The Catholics, we might say, have their magnificent library for all of us to draw upon, already built up and complete centuries ago. The Lutherans, Episcopalians, Baptists, Methodists, Presbyterians and Congregationalists each require certain specific elements in their music; the Christian Scientists need no library except solos. Other sects follow their own peculiar musical customs—for better or worse, according to one's viewpoint.

So all I would try to tell you here is the story of my own experience in building a library, in the hope that it may contain some helpful ideas; for I assume that most of my readers are also in the library building business, or will be sooner or later. Let me sketch as briefly as possible the church and music background for the formation of this particular choir library.

Madison Avenue Presbyterian, when I began my duties there, was, and still is, a big neighborhood parish, very different in character from such churches as St. Thomas' or the Brick Presbyterian. From a rather run-down if highly respectable religious group with a few wealthy families paying their pew rents, it had been transformed by the Christian activities of the young and dynamic Henry Sloane Coffin into a vigorous, outreaching, inclusive church whose congregation, comprising some 3,000 families, presents a very fair cross-section of American society. Its members come chiefly from an area reaching from Fifty-ninth to Ninety-sixth street and from Fifth Avenue to the East River; but they also come from other parts of the city and, for that matter, from all over the country. (People from Scotland with letters of transfer usually head for Madison Avenue. The treasurer tells me their pledges are generous.)

Laymen and women and their organizations play an important part in the church's growth. Poor and middle-class families are the lifeblood of the parish and its continuing vitality is evident in its strong youth contingent. As early as 1920 the Sunday-school had 1,500 members. The big ten-story church house is a bee-hive of activity seven days a week. The church staff, including ministers, organists, student assistants, social workers and clerical force, numbers some forty persons.

Granting a wide divergence in economic and social status, Madison Avenue's congregation remains remarkably democratic. Few rents have long been abolished. Strangers coming to worship invariably comment on the warmth and sincere cordiality shown them. Needless to say, I count it a great privilege to have served such a church.

So much for the institution itself. Next a few words concerning its musical history. When I retired in June, 1951, I was "interviewed" by our Church News. Here in brief is what I said—or what the News says I said:

The past fifty years have seen several important changes and developments in Madison Avenue's musical set-up. Originally an organist and solo quartet furnished the music, singing from a choir loft in the south gallery. A volunteer chorus of mixed voices was organized about 1909. When Charles Safford was called from this parish to St. George's in 1913, I succeeded him as musical director. During Dr. Coffin's pastorate a few leading voices were engaged, and eventually there was a regular quartet of soloists in addition to the chorus. A better grade of music was introduced with a consequent improvement in musical taste.

In 1923 the church interior was remodeled and the splendid four-manual Casavant organ was installed with a notable series of inaugural recitals. When Dr. Coffin became president of Union Theological Seminary and Dr. Buttrick succeeded him at Madison Avenue the small nucleus of professional singers was slightly enlarged.

With the wise guidance and cooperation of Dr. Philip Jones, who came to us from Covenant Presbyterian Church in Cleveland to direct our department of religious education, a group of younger choirs was organized in 1929 under Horace Hollister's direction. During his seventeen years at Madison Avenue Mr. Hollister developed the junior, intermediate and young people's choirs to a high point of perfection. The establishment of regular worship services replaced the so-called "opening exercises" of the Sunday-school, and the singing of the youth choirs with their own vestments and ritual lends richness and beauty to these early Sunday devotions in the sanctuary. Mr. Hollister also founded the annual Interracial Service of Good Will, which has been copied by many churches all over the United States.

Since the adult choir is largely composed of volunteers, I have long made it a practice to instruct new members in the fundamentals of vocal technique. The only drawback is that as they improve we lose them to other churches who pay them!

Our musical library is now one of the largest, and in point of quality one of the best, of any in the New York churches. It contains many of the great choral works of sixteenth century composers, a goodly number of Bach's cantatas, chorales, solos and choruses from the B minor Mass, the Christmas Oratorio and the "St. John" and "St. Matthew" Passions. Haydn, Mozart, Beethoven, Schubert, Mendelssohn, Brahms, Franck, Gabriel Fauré and Kodály are represented by their finest sacred works. There is a rich and splendid collection of religious music by American composers. The organ repertoire is equally extensive and varied.

What was my plan in building this music library? Well, practically none to begin with. I didn't know how long I would stay, and certainly I wasn't planning to stay thirty-eight years! Maybe Madison Avenue would fire me, or some other church would hire me.

I went to work with what I found in the way of a choir and music. There was a volunteer chorus plus two paid singers. (You could hardly class them as soloists.) In the library were a few good numbers and a hundred-odd not-so-good ones, plus the old Schirmer Anthem Book containing some of the dullest English anthems ever inflicted on a long-suffering congregation. The lions lacked and suffered hunger, we sought the Lord where he might be found, we tasted and saw.

Although I started with no detailed plan, I did, of course, have certain ideas along with some ambitious dreams. Much of the initial work was of a negative kind. It was possible to replace inferior with better music, however simple. I made mistakes. I tried to make the choir sing music which was too hard for them at the time. There is, of course, something to be said for this procedure. Choirs do improve through the effort of learning music somewhat beyond their capacity. Looking back, I recall that my own choir did some of its finest work while singing the most difficult music. Be that as it may, it took me some years to admit the obvious truism that simple (but good) music, sung with tonal beauty, perfect intonation and diction and a genuine feeling for the words is far preferable to a second-rate performance of something more difficult, beautiful though it may be.

Sometimes we purchased an interesting but difficult piece and waited a year or two before we could do it justice. Some music was rehearsed for one or two seasons before we gave it.

The selection of choir music depends on several factors: The make-up and quality of the choir, the church seasons, the artistic taste, skill and attitude of the director; the amount of music needed each Sunday, the cooperation of the clergy and music committee, the cultural level and reaction of the congregation, the acoustics, the organ, the church's financial policy, etc.

Since Madison Avenue's adult choir has always consisted largely of volunteers it probably resembles nine-tenths of the choirs directed by those reading this article; hence our problems must be pretty much the same. My own chorus varied from thirty to seventy-five and in quality from ordinary to excellent. As a matter of record and strange as it may seem, we reached our greatest heights in years when we had the fewest professionals. There was one golden period when the same fifty volunteers returned for three successive years—quite remarkable in a city where the annual turnover is normally high. In spite of changing personnel the choir grew better with the years, partly because I was learning to do my job better; and the musical programs reflect that progress. This probably is or will be your own experience.

Doubtless most of you follow the church seasons and festivals in your choice of music. Perhaps you have decided, as I did long ago, that it is best to plan a whole year's music in advance, with the possibility of changes whenever necessary or desirable. You would find this evident in our library catalogue were it analyzed from this angle. Advent, Thanksgiving, All Saints', Christmas, Epiphany, Lent, Holy Week and Easter; Whitsunday, Trinity, national holidays, communion—all are adequately represented.

At Madison Avenue the amount of music required for the regular Sunday services is small compared with Lutheran or Episcopal churches. It has been possible, therefore, to prepare well ahead of time a considerable amount of important and sometimes difficult music for performance.

In the beginning years I was occasionally painfully conscious of the music committee's existence; but as time went on its attitude became more kindly and—well, it sort of faded out of the picture. I habitually maintain close contact with the ministers, who are often as concerned with the words as with the choice of music. "Keep culturally just one jump ahead of your congregation—you know their average musical age is about 14 years", one pastor advised me. I never paid much attention to that. In so far as it does not interfere with the spiritual message of the music itself, I like to include selections which point up the minister's sermon, the collects, Psalter or Scripture readings, but very little music was purchased on that basis.

One cross I have had to bear: The same people who so generously donated funds for the organ, pushed generosity too far and added a $10,000 carpet an inch thick covering the entire church floor (they were in that business!). I fought the music committee, the architect, the minister—everyone except the donors, in fact—and I lost the battle. Result: An acoustical vessel with no resonance. This accounts partly for the large proportion of a cappella music in our library. A dry church (not in the prohibition sense) is hard on the choir, but good for them also, since they must cultivate a clean legato style. (Good for the organist, too, I might add.)

Unlike St. Bartholomew's, where they claim a pebble thrown into the air is sure to land on a millionaire's bald head—I never tried it!—Madison Avenue Presbyterian is not a particularly wealthy parish. The session and trustees may have a few tight-fisted, and from the organist's point of view, unrealistic members, but the majority has usually followed a sane and generous policy toward the music budget.

With these background conditions in mind the repertoire at Madison Avenue can be better understood. I'm not fond of statistics, but here they help to give you an overall picture of our choir library as now constituted. Briefly it contains about 400 items, breaking down into these ten categories:

Sixteenth and seventeenth centuries: sixty by twenty-four composers.
Bach: fifty-five.
American: 100 by forty composers.
Russian: twenty by twelve composers.
German: twenty-two by eight composers.
English: forty by eighteen composers.
French: ten by seven composers.
Carols and carol arrangements: fifty.
Oratorios, masses and cantatas, excluding Bach: twenty.
Quartets and miscellaneous: sixty.
(The figures are approximately correct.)

Of the sixty-odd sixteenth and seventeenth century items, all but three are unaccompanied, as you would naturally expect, and only one of the three (by Gibbons) dates from the sixteenth century.

The Bach group comprises eight cantatas, two a cappella motets, twenty-five choruses and chorales from the B minor

Mass, Passions, Christmas Oratorio and motets, plus about twenty arias and duos from cantatas and other works.

Of the forty native American composers represented, thirty are now living. Forty numbers are a cappella. The choir has sung a good many Negro spirituals and folk hymns not counted in the total.

The Russian list includes a "Pater Noster" in manuscript by Stravinsky which as far as I know has been sung only by the Madison Avenue adult choir.

Standard oratorios by Handel, Haydn, Mendelssohn and Brahms are not included in the German list. Two anthems by Kurt Thomas have not been sung by any other American choir, to my knowledge. Sixteenth and seventeenth century English composers are not included in the English list. Some sixty English anthems or canticles originally in the repertoire were discarded either for their innate lack of interest or because they no longer correspond to American religious needs.

France is not a choral-minded nation in the sense that America and England are. Hence the relatively small percentage of French choral pieces corresponding to our anthems. Our adult choir gave the first New York performance of the Fauré Requiem in 1926.

Of the large number of Christmas and Easter carols performed during my tenure about fifty hold an assured place in the repertoire. Most of them are folk-songs. Twenty-five are of French origin; the rest come from America, England, Germany and other countries.

There are in our library about twenty oratorios, cantatas and masses exclusive of Bach. About half of these have had complete or nearly complete performance; the remaining half has furnished numerous excerpts.

In view of Madison Avenue's adult choir set-up we have never sought to compete with certain New York choirs who do practically one major choral work every Sunday. I seriously doubt the wisdom of this. Our own church has never found it necessary to attract people through this means. Moreover, the choir thoroughly understands that every Sunday must be made a "special" Sunday through singing the music, be it complex or simple, as beautifully and feelingly as possible. In our own case, at least, I feel that this policy has paid off.

A perusal of Madison Avenue service lists over a thirty-eight-year period shows performances of some 800 choral works, half of which constitute our present library. (There was a periodic weeding-out and careful selection of new material.) It would be interesting if we could have the whole catalogue before us and compare notes. The reader would surely find many of his own favorites.

Madison Avenue possesses a modest but excellent youth choir library representing some twenty years of activity. It consists of 155 numbers, only a few duplicating those in the adult choir repertoire. Forty pieces are for unison singing, thirty-seven for two or three parts and the remainder for SAB or SATB, corresponding roughly to the ages and degree of development in the three youth choruses.

DePAUL UNIVERSITY OFFERS LITURGICAL MUSIC WORKSHOP

Registration for the third annual liturgical music workshop of the DePaul University School of Music summer session will open June 21 and end June 26. Classes begin June 28. Registration and classes are held in the school of music at the DePaul University downtown center, 64 East Lake Street, Chicago. The workshop is intended primarily for the training of classroom teachers of liturgical music and professional church musicians. Instruction and practice is offered in liturgy, Gregorian chant, chirotonomy, service playing and classroom chant methods.

The 1954 faculty includes Rene Dosogne, director of the workshop, who holds a master's degree from the American Conservatory of Music. Mr. Dosogne also studied at the Pius X school under Mother Stevens and Achille Bragers. Another faculty member is the Rev. Lucian Duesing, O.S.B., who holds a master's degree from the American Conservatory and who has been organist at St. Meinrad's (Ind.) Abbey since 1936. Newest addition to the workshop faculty is the Rev. Joseph Mroczkowski, who studied for three years at the Pontifical Institute of Sacred Music in Rome. He is also a teacher of music at Quigley Preparatory Seminary.

McCURDY OPENS SCHULMERICH INSTRUMENTS IN LINCOLN, NEB.

Some of the greatest contributions to the literature of the organ were played by Dr. Alexander McCurdy at Trinity Lutheran Church, Lincoln, Neb., for the dedication of a "Carillon Bells" instrument and a "ChimeAtron" before a capacity audience in the church March 28. The program included Bach chorale preludes and selections by David Stanley York, Schumann, Brahms, Langlais, Dupré, Georges Jacob, Purvis and Elmore and Dr. McCurdy's own composition, "Meditation on the Bells".

Schulmerich Carillons, Inc., installed at Trinity Lutheran Church a "Coronation Carillon," a twenty-five note instrument, and a "ChimeAtron," also a twenty-five note instrument used primarily for organ accompaniment. The "Coronation Carillon," with two full octaves, rings out from the eighty-foot Trinity tower near the Nebraska state capitol. The instrument can be played with or without the organ and can be heard inside or outside the church, or both simultaneously. The "ChimeAtron" is a completely new instrument for either inside or outside playing. It has a two-octave chromatic range.

ISA McILWRAITH CONDUCTS CONCERT IN HONOR OF GUILD

The combined choirs of the University of Chattanooga, under the direction of Isa McIlwraith, M.S.M., gave a concert of sacred music March 14 in the John A. Patten Chapel. The program was dedicated to the Chattanooga Chapter of the American Guild of Organists. The works performed included Brahms' motet "Schaffe in mir, Gott, ein reines Herz," Buxtehude's cantata "Alles was ihr thut mit Worten oder mit Werken," Schütz's cantata "Ich werde nicht sterben," Vaughan Williams' Mass in G minor and Andriessen's Magnificat. Miss McIlwraith was assisted at the organ by Mary Alce Hollaway.

CLAREMONT CALIFORNIA

MARY G. KELTIE

Mrs. MARY G. KELTIE has announced that she will retire May 1 after serving for thirty-five years as organist of the First Presbyterian Church of Long Beach, Cal. Mrs. Keltie marked her anniversary at the church in March. She is a charter member of the Long Beach Chapter of the A.G.O.

Mrs. Keltie received her early musical training at the American Conservatory in Chicago, beginning serious organ playing when she was 14 years of age. At the Long Beach church she has served under five ministers and several directors of music. In the war years she also directed the choir. Mrs. Keltie played for nine years at the Cathedral Chapel, Sunnyside Mausoleum, and for fifteen years she was organist for a mortuary.

A special committee from the congregation of the First Presbyterian Church was named to plan appropriate recognition of Mrs. Keltie's service to the church and community.

MODERN ORGAN MUSIC HEARD

AT FESTIVAL IN LOUISIANA

The eleventh festival of contemporary music at Louisiana State University, Baton Rouge, was held in April and May. The purpose of these festivals is to perform modern works never before heard at the university. The performances are by members of the faculty and student body, assisted by visiting artists. Organ numbers appeared on two of the programs this year. At the second concert, April 7, John Adams played three chorale preludes by Roger Sessions. At the third concert, April 11, which was devoted to music by students at the university, Myrtis Fortenberry played Frank Matthews' Prelude and Fugue. Mr. Matthews is a native of Zachary, La., and a graduate student in composition.

STANFORD LEHMBERG PLAYS

FUGUE BY HAGBARD BRASE

Stanford Lehmborg, who is a graduate student in history at the University of Kansas, gave a recital March 28 at the First Congregational Church in McPherson, Kan., where he formerly served as organist. Mr. Lehmborg is a native of McPherson. He studied for six years with the late Dr. Hagbard Brase and one of the numbers played at the recital was a Fugue written by Dr. Brase in 1911 which had never before been performed in public. Mr. Lehmborg continued his organ study with G. Criss Simpson at the University of Kansas. At present he is associate organist of Plymouth Congregational Church in Lawrence and assistant carillonneur at the university. Mr. Lehmborg is a member of Phi Beta Kappa and is active in the work of the Kansas City Chapter of the A.G.O.

Mr. Lehmborg was assisted in his recital by Linda Stormont, contralto, who has been a member of the St. Louis Municipal Opera and is now doing graduate study at the University of Kansas. Besides the Brase number Mr. Lehmborg played the Concerto in F, No. 13, Handel; Allegretto, Whitlock; First Symphony, Maquaire.

BOSTON ORCHESTRA PLAYS

SYMPHONY BY GARDNER READ

Gardner Read conducted the Boston Symphony Orchestra March 19 and 20 in performances of his one-movement dance symphony "The Temptation of St. Anthony," based on a novel by Flaubert. Mr. Read, who has written many numbers for organ and church choirs, was commissioned last year to compose a work for the Louisville, Ky., Orchestra. He completed this composition in the summer at the MacDowell Colony and it was performed four times in March and April by the orchestra which commissioned it. The work is entitled "Toccata Giocosa" and it is to be recorded on an LP disk. Mr. Read's Prelude on an Old Southern Hymn, based on a tune by William Billings, recently was played on a Sunday morning broadcast by E. Power Biggs. Mr. Read is a professor at Boston University College of Music.

AN EASTER MYSTERY will be presented under the direction of Yuri Arbatsky May 2 at the Kenwood-Ellis Community Church in Chicago. The material used was discovered by Dr. Arbatsky at the Monastery of St. Valdemar near Elbasan in Albania.

How WURLITZER gets High-Fidelity TRADITIONAL TONE from an electronic organ

You remember the big change that took place when electronics was first introduced to the organ in the '30's. Most manufacturers went from tone produced from a natural source to tone produced artificially.

Here at Wurlitzer we never followed this trend.

Instead, we looked for a way to use electronics without giving up the advantages of the traditional organ. Years of research proved that brass reeds, which were capable of producing a full range of harmonics, could be combined with certain principles of advanced electronics to produce beautiful organ voices. And today, the Wurlitzer Reed stands as the only natural source of tone in the entire electronic organ field.

Here's how the Wurlitzer Reed works:

The vibrations of the reed are picked up by a series of electronic tone selectors, located close to the points of the reed where the harmonic content is that of the tone desired. (For example, tip of the reed for trumpet tone; center of reed for string tone; base of reed for flute tone, etc.)

The harmonics are then transmitted through the tone selectors, to the Wurlitzer high-fidelity sound system. There, electronics transform these harmonics into glorious organ tones. (The straight reed tone is completely silenced by a soundproof chest.)

Of course, this is the way only one of the Wurlitzer Reeds is utilized. Multiply this process many times, and you have the glorious ensemble of the full organ.

Combining traditional organ advantages with the savings of this electronic age in a single instrument comes naturally to Wurlitzer. We have been serving organists for almost half a century. We hope you will let your nearest Wurlitzer dealer prove this to you soon.

SEWANEE CONFERENCE HELD

AT MONTEAGLE, TENN., IN JULY

The Sewanee School of Church Music, designed primarily for organists, choir-masters and choristers of the Episcopal Church in the South, will hold its fourth session at DuBose Conference Center, Monteagle, Tenn., from July 13 to 22. It is sponsored by the Fourth (Sewanee) Province of the Episcopal Church, with the Rt. Rev. Theodore N. Barth, D. D., Bishop of Tennessee, in charge. This summer conference is a non-profit organization. Daily courses will include such subjects as "The Book of Common Prayer," chanting, service music, "The Hymnal 1940," preludes and postludes, the sung litany, choral evensong, rehearsal techniques and junior choirs. Practical training will be received through choir rehearsals, the choir being made up of conference members. Afternoons will be free for recreation and private consultation with faculty members.

The faculty will include outstanding men such as the Rev. Massey H. Shepherd, Jr., Ph.D., S.T.D., professor of liturgics at the Church Divinity School of the Pacific, Berkeley, Cal.; Robert L. Van Doren, A.B., M. Mus., F.T.C.L., of Columbia, S. C.; Jack Edwin Rogers of Knoxville, Tenn.; Robert Cochrane Penick, A.B., M.S.M., Institute of Musical Art, New York, of Columbus, Miss., and Sam Batt Owens of Birmingham, Ala. Adolph Steuterman, Calvary Church Memphis, is again serving as chairman of arrangements, Thomas Alexander, St. Paul's, Chattanooga, Tenn., as registrar and bursar, and Richard T. White, St. John's Church, Memphis, as secretary.

SOWERBY'S "CANTICLE OF SUN" TO BE SUNG BY APOLLO CLUB

The first Chicago performance of Leo Sowerby's choral symphony "The Canticle of the Sun" will be given by the Apollo Musical Club of Chicago, under the composer's direction, Monday evening, May 10, at Orchestra Hall.

Mr. Sowerby, head of the department of theory and composition at the American Conservatory, has gone a long way since the late Frederick Stock introduced the sixteen-year old composer's Violin Concerto in one of his Symphony programs. Arriving in Chicago from his native Grand Rapids at the age of 14, Mr. Sowerby chose the organ as his pot-boiler while attending the American Conservatory. Knowing nothing about the instrument, he drew a plan of the pedalboard, put it under his upright piano, and after a few weeks of silent dummy practice, he got his first organ job.

In the intervening years, he has written in every form except opera.

Following his army service in world war I, Mr. Sowerby resumed his composing and in 1921 became the first American composer to win the Prix de Rome, with a three-year fellowship for study in the Italian capital. He is a member of the hymnal commission of the Episcopal Church and now serves on its joint commission of church music. He has participated in the Salzburg Festival of Contemporary Music and has fulfilled commissions for the Society for Publication of American Music and CBS.

"The Canticle of the Sun" was commissioned by the Alice M. Ditson Fund of Columbia University. Published in 1944, the work had its premiere the next year by the Schola Cantorum of New York, under Hugh Ross' direction. A Pulitzer prize for music resulted in 1946. The work is a choral setting of the "Canticum di Fratre Sole" of St. Francis of Assisi, translated from the Umbrian by Matthew Arnold. The form of the work is a series of impressionistic tonal pictures of all the elements of heaven and earth praising the Creator.

In addition to the Sowerby work, the Apollo Club, under Henry Veld's direction, will present the Brahms German Requiem, with Maude Nosler, soprano, and Bruce Foote, baritone, as soloists.

F. W. TROWBRIDGE, CHICAGO

ORGAN ENTHUSIAST, IS DEAD

Frank W. Trowbridge, who was known to organists throughout the Chicago area because of his interest in organs and recitals, died April 4 of a heart attack at the age of 65 years. Mr. Trowbridge was an employe of the Commonwealth Edison Company.

Though he was not an organist, it is probable that Mr. Trowbridge was the most faithful attendant at organ recitals in Chicago and he frequently traveled many miles to hear performances in the city and suburban communities. He was also a devoted collector of specifications and recital programs. Mr. Trowbridge was a subscribing member of the Illinois Chapter of the A.G.O.

He is survived by his widow, a daughter and a son.

AT THE CHAPEL OF THE Intercession, Trinity Parish, New York. Clinton Reed directed Bach's "Passion according to St. Matthew" in a special musical service at 4 p.m. on Passion Sunday, April 4, sung by the choirs of the Intercession, accompanied by organ and orchestra, including the Kraeuter String Quartet. Charles Ennis was at the organ and the narrator was the Rev. Joseph S. Minnis, D. D., vicar of the Chapel of the Intercession.

F. C. BUTTERFIELD

"TUESDAY EVENING, MARCH 19, 1904, I, a very scared young organ student of John Hermann Loud (now organist of Park Street Church, Boston), played my first church service at my home church, the First Universalist, Arlington, Mass. It was a Holy Week service. There were fifty people in the congregation, including my mother and father."

Thus began the career of Frederic Curtis Butterfield, who has marked his fiftieth year as a church organist and is still playing at the Glendale Methodist Church in Everett, Mass. Mr. Butterfield received the degree of bachelor of arts from Harvard University in 1905 and continued graduate study in organ there for two years. He then spent two years in Paris as a pupil of Widor. At the time of world war I he served in the French army as director of Le Foyer du Soldat, an organization which did work similar to that of the Y.M.C.A.

Mr. Butterfield has taught in a number of universities, including De Pauw, Washington State College and West Virginia University. In the summers from 1931 through 1937 he conducted musical tours of Europe for Thomas C. Cook & Sons. He went to his present post in 1943 from the Union Congregational Church in Winthrop, Mass. Mr. Butterfield is a member of the Boston Chapter of the A.G.O., the Choir Directors' Association of Boston and other musical organizations. He lives with an uncle, R. A. Perkins, former mayor of the town of Melrose.

LUTHER NOSS IS MADE DEAN OF YALE SCHOOL OF MUSIC

President A. Whitney Griswold of Yale University announced on April 12 the appointment of Luther Noss, professor of music and university organist, as the new dean of the Yale School of Music, effective July 1. Professor Noss, a member of the Yale faculty since 1939, will succeed Bruce Simonds, who has been dean since 1941. Dean Simonds, a distinguished concert pianist, will devote his time next year to his concert work and to his teaching at Yale. Professor Noss will remain as chairman of the department of music at Yale, a post he has held since 1950, and as master of Silliman College, one of Yale's ten residential colleges. A successor as university organist will be announced later. Professor Simonds will continue as professor of music and also as director of the Norfolk Summer School of Music.

Professor Noss is from Austin, Minn. He attended St. Olaf's College, Northfield, Minn., and Northwestern University, where he received a bachelor of music degree in 1930. In 1931 he received a bachelor of music degree from the Yale School of Music and in 1932 his master of music degree, also from Yale. From 1932 to 1934 he studied abroad as Charles H. Ditson fellow of Yale, first in Vienna with Alban Berg and later in Paris with Marcel Dupré. Prior to joining the Yale faculty he served at Phillips Academy, Andover, and Cornell University, where he was university organist. He was appointed recently to the commission on music of the National Council of Churches of Christ in America.

DR. ELLIS E. CHASE, CHICAGO ORGANIST, DIES IN THE RIVER

Dr. Ellis E. Chase, for many years an active organist and choir director in Chicago, disappeared from the Episcopal Church Home for Aged Persons on the south side March 1 and his body was taken from the Chicago River April 14. Dr. Chase was 84 years old and a widower. He left the home, in which he had lived for several years, to go for a walk and did not return.

Dr. Chase was a dentist previous to devoting himself to church music. He was organist and choirmaster of Christ Episcopal Church in Winnetka from 1922 to 1942 and of the Church of the Epiphany in Chicago, now the Cathedral Shelter, from 1942 to 1948.

ORGAN CLUB HOLDS SERVICE IN MEMORY OF DR. MAITLAND

The American Organ Players' Club sponsored a service in memory of Dr. Rollo F. Maitland March 14 at the Church of the New Jerusalem in Philadelphia. Dr. Maitland's cantata "The Glorified Christ" was performed by the combined choirs of the First and Central Presbyterian Church, Trinity Memorial Episcopal Church, the Church of the New Jerusalem and the Varsity Singers of Drexel Institute, under the direction of Wallace Heaton. Mildred A. Purnell was at the organ. At the opening of the service C. Robert Ege played Bach's "Hark, a Voice Saith All Are Mortal" and "Our Father Which Art in Heaven," Maitland's "At Sundown" and Franck's Chorale in B minor.

HERMAN HUPPENBAUER DIES AFTER LUNcheon SERVICE IN N.Y.

Herman C. Huppenbauer, for many years organist of St. Paul's Lutheran Church in Brooklyn, N. Y., died March 18 at the age of 71 years. Mr. Huppenbauer was a native of Brooklyn and his father was pastor of the church he served there. For the last thirty-two years Mr. Huppenbauer made his home in Queens Village and served there as organist of several churches, including the Lutheran Church of the Redeemer and Grace Lutheran Church. He is survived by his widow and two daughters.

ANNUAL WORKSHOP WILL BE HELD AT DEARBORN IN JUNE

The second annual Greenfield Village Workshop will be held June 21 to 25 at Dearborn, Mich. Faculty members will be Henry Veld, Ruth Krehbiel Jacobs and Gordon Young. Information may be obtained from the Guild of Church Musicians, 65 East Columbia Street, Detroit 1.

MRS. JEFFREY DOOR IS DEAD; GRAND RAPIDS ORGANIST

Mrs. Jeffrey Door, minister of music at St. John's Evangelical and Reformed Church, Grand Rapids, Mich., passed away Jan. 30. She was a life-long resident of Grand Rapids, was an active member of the Western Michigan Chapter of the A.G.O. and was well known as a piano teacher. She leaves her husband, a bass soloist; a daughter, Yvonne; a son, Jeffrey Lee, and her mother and a brother and sister, all of Grand Rapids.

HELEN A. BATTLE, ORGANIST OF ATLANTA CHURCH, IS DEAD

N. LINDSAY NORDEN'S one-act opera "Through a Glass Darkly" will receive its first performance Tuesday, May 4, at the Ethical Society Auditorium in Philadelphia. The opera, which will be performed in concert form, tells a story about the church as "big business" as contrasted with its spiritual mission. The composer will conduct.

Helen A. Battle, who for fourteen years was organist of the Rock Springs Presbyterian Church in Atlanta, Ga., died March 12 after a long illness. Miss Battle had been active in the Atlanta Chapter of the American Guild of Organists many years.

DE PAUL UNIVERSITY CHOIR
WILL GIVE CONCERT MAY 22

The choir of DePaul University, Chicago, directed by Dean Arthur C. Becker, will appear in concert at Thorne Hall, Saturday, May 22. Dr. Becker will conduct a program including "Emitte Spiritum Tuum," Schuetky; Sanctus, Benedictus and Agnus Dei of the "Missa Brevis," Palestrina; Bach's cantata "Oh Jesus, Lord, My Light and Life," and the "Magnificat," with Helen Warner, contralto, and Mary Ann Huber, flutist, as soloists. In the second half of the program the following numbers will be heard: "Brazilian Psalm," Birger; "The Lute," Skinner; "Michael's Day Carol," "Poor Wayfaring Stranger," folksong; "A Legend," Tchaikowsky; "Autumn," Gretchaninoff, and "Out of the Silence," Jenkins. Assisting the choir will be the Ferber Trio of Paris—Dorette, pianist; Miriam, violinist, and Regina, cellist, who are now living in Chicago. Mattie Tucker, pianist, and Herman Pedtke, organist, will accompany portions of the program.

BEDELL'S WORKS ARE PLAYED AT FAMOUS CHURCH IN PARIS

Several compositions by Dr. Robert Leech Bedell, editor of the Edition Le Grand Orgue, have been included in recent recital programs by Edouard Mignan, organist of the Church of the Madeleine in Paris. M. Mignan gives a noon-hour recital there every Sunday and these recitals have proved an attraction to visiting organists. M. Mignan holds the post which once belonged to Saint-Saens.

WEST POINT CHOIR MAKES
25TH VISIT TO ST. THOMAS'

The Cadet Chapel Choir of the United States Military Academy at West Point made its twenty-fifth annual visit to St. Thomas' Church, New York City, March 7 and assisted in the service of evensong.

Frederick C. Mayer, organist of the Cadet Chapel, conducted the choir in the West Point Hymn and Naegeli's "The King of Love." The cadet group was joined by the choir of St. Thomas' Church for the singing of Candlyn's "Hail, Gladdening Light." The members of the choir were guests of the men's association of the parish.

ABC NETWORK BROADCASTS
RECITALS BY CLINTON REED

Recitals broadcast over the facilities of station WABC in New York and the ABC network were played by Clinton Reed on Wednesday evenings in Lent. Some of the programs originated at the Chapel of the Intercession and others at Trinity Church. For his recital March 24 Mr. Reed chose Sweelinck's Fantasy in Echo Style, Brahms' "O Sacred Head" and Reubke's Sonata on the Ninety-fourth Psalm. He played these numbers March 17: Prelude on "Picardy," Noble; Sonata, Bach; "Now Thank We All Our God," Karg-Elert; "Carillon," DeLamar-ter; Processional, Shaw.

A LECTURESHIP IN ORGAN and choral music for churches has been established at Lebanon Valley College in cooperation with the Harrisburg Ministerium. The Rev. George Litch Knight, assistant minister at the West Side Presbyterian Church, Ridgewood, N. J., has been selected as the first visiting lecturer. He conducted morning and afternoon sessions April 24 in the Engle Hall Conservatory of Music at Annville, Pa. The purpose of the newly-established lectureship is to provide expert counsel and assistance to organists and choir directors of churches in the surrounding area. Mr. Knight will discuss "The Choir and its Problems" and "The Organ and its Function in the Worship Service."

FREDERICK L. ERICKSEN, F.A.G.O., directed the choir of Emmanuel Church, Baltimore, in a performance on Hugh Newsum's "The Divine Passion" April 4. Supper was served to the congregation at intermission.

TONAL FEATURES WHICH ARE EXCLUSIVE
TO THE CONCERT MODEL HAMMOND ORGAN

The Concert Model Hammond Organ has so many interesting tonal features that it would be impossible to list them all below. The only way to become thoroughly convinced of the merit of this instrument is to hear and play it for yourself. You are invited to do so at your nearest Hammond dealer. He will be pleased to afford you an opportunity to play this remarkable organ and to explore some of its many interesting and beautiful tonal effects. Listed below are a few outstanding tonal features which are obtained by patented methods and are therefore exclusive to the Hammond Organ.

Manual Registration: Foundation tones speak on both manuals at 16 ft., 8 ft., 2 ft., and 1 ft. pitches. Mutations are provided at 5-1/3 ft. (quint), 2-2/3 ft. (nazard), 1-3/5 ft. (tierce), and 1-1/3 ft. (larigot) pitches. The strength of each is individually adjustable, making possible an amazingly wide variety of ensemble, solo, accompanimental and mixture registrations. All registrations are obtained in a "straight" manner without resort to "unification" devices such as octave couplers, duplexing, etc.

Pedal Registrations: Foundation tones speak at 32 ft., 16 ft., and 8 ft. pitches. Solo tones of the brilliant chorus reed type are available at 32 ft., 16 ft., 8 ft., 4 ft., 2-and-1 ft. pitches. The 32 ft. stops are not obtained as "resultants" but contain the true harmonics as well as the fundamental. The magnificent tonal depth of these 32 ft. stops must be heard to be appreciated.

Reverberation Unit: When the Concert Model Organ is installed in an acoustically "dead" room (such as an organist's living room), the Hammond Reverberation Unit is used to prolong the notes slightly after the keys are released to produce the sonority of a reverberative church building. This is very useful as it relieves the organist from maintaining an absolutely legato technique which is necessary when no reverberation is present.

Selective Vibrato: The great and swell manuals are provided with separate ON-OFF vibrator controls in the form of tilting stop tablets. A rotating control "VIBRATO AND CHORUS" has six possible positions corresponding to three degrees of vibrato and three degrees of vibrato chorus. This control pre-selects the extent of vibrato or vibrato chorus which will be obtained when either of the manual vibrato "ON-OFF" stops is used.

"Volume Stop": Use of this stop is of artistic importance to the organist as it enables him to play softly using any registration without losing the full range of expression offered by the swell pedal.

Preset Combinations: Each manual of the organ is equipped with nine pre-set combination keys. In addition, there are two sets of manually adjustable controls for each manual, thus making twenty-two different registrations which are instantly available. These many preset combinations are of great utility in performing organ works in which there are rapid registration changes.

Other features of interest to the church and recital organist are the promptness of tonal attack (insuring clarity in fast-moving selections), freedom from tuning and other services, extremely small operating cost, compactness, portability, and simplicity of operation.

Moderate in cost, the dollar value of this Hammond Organ as an instrument for church, recital and teaching purposes is approached by no other organ.

An Organist's Ode to Music

Dear Mr. Gruenstein: In looking over some old papers I found a poem which was written by our Chandler Goldthwaite, years ago—probably twenty years ago and for a former generation. I think present-day organists might enjoy reading it and so I am sending it to you hoping you might be willing to publish it, as it is both witty and shows gifts of versification of some order, not too common, and by one of the finest organists of his day.

ERNEST M. SKINNER.

One night last week, 'twas mighty cold
With wind and rain and snow,
I'm sittin' with my slippers on
Before the radio.

'Twas pretty nearly supper time
And as I tuned her in
Some guy was quotin' price of lead,
Of copper, zinc and tin.

Says I it bein' Thursday night
I'll wait for Rudy Vallee
When suddenly comes bustin' in My little sister Sallie.

She looks at me a moment
Almost like she didn't know me
And seemin' real excited,
Like she'd something swell to show me.

"O, Bill, she cried, I hope tonight
You haven't gotten dated,
Cause if you ain't we're goin' to town
To git you educated."

She says my likin' radio
Is gittin' most too chronic
And so she's got some tickets
For the New York Philharmonic.

"Aw gee," says I, "The weather's bum
And tell you honest, Sallie,
I'd rather stay at home tonight
And tune in Rudy Vallee."

But I can see she wants to go.
In all that snow and rain,
So I slips on the soup and fish
And then we hops a train.

The show's on at Carnegie Hall
So we goes up in style;
A-ridin' in a taxi
Costin' 30 cents a mile.

And when we gets there at the hall,
We looks around; I swan!
The men was all dressed up to kill
The dames ain't got much on.

Our seats was in the middle,
So we went there quick and sat,
Just to try to get familiar
With the sort of joint we're at.

The balconies was all filled up,
A big mob on the floor
I heard some bells start ringin'
And the usher shut the door.

The stage was all filled up with men
And golly! What a noise.
There's everything from great big horns,
To little bits of toys.

Bull fiddles layin' all around
And groans and grunts and hoots;
'Cause everywhere up on the stage
The guys was playin' toots.

Way in the back I sees a horn,
Near where the drummer sat;
It sure must take a pile of wind
To blow a toot on that.

The program book was full of words
All Polak, Greek and Guinea;
And there I spots the leader's name,
Arturo Toscaninny.

The program's full of crazy names—
Tchaikowsky, Shostakovich.
It seems some bozo's going to play,
Named Ossip Gabrilowitsch.

I turned and whispers to a dame,
Beside me where I sat,
"The bird must be a bolshevik
To have a name like that."

The dame she turns and looks at me,
She's kind of up in arms,
And giving me a frigid stare
She says "He's playin' Brahms."

Then all at once it quiets down,
The lights get low and dim;
And Toski walks out on the stage,
(I guessed right off 'twas him.)

The gang all give him quite a hand,
And when the clapping's done,
He waves a funny looking stick
Which means the show's begun.

They played a piece mighty long
(I thought 'twould never stop).
The crowd all seemed to like it;
But to me it was a flop.

Old Toski waved his arms around
Like something scarcely human;
The program said the piece was by
Some wop named Robert Schumann.

Before the end the time's so long
I'm getting pretty drowsy.

The dame beside me likes it swell;
But me, I think it's lousy.

At last it's intermission,
So the crowd all gab and gossip,
While Toski beats it off back-stage
To look around for Ossip.

The orchestra all shuffle off,
In every sort of manner;
While in comes two big husky brutes
A-luggin' a pianner.

The intermission's over
And the dame beside me cries,
"He's playin' Brahms D minor,"
And she sighs and shuts her eyes.

I'm really kind of curious,
'Cause with a name so weird,
I'll bet he carries bombs around
And wears a Roossian beard.

But when he walks out on the stage
To my complete surprise,
He's tall and thin and dignified,
Unlike them Roossian guys.

Then Toski starts to strut his stuff,
And Ossip sits him down
In front of the pianner,
But he doesn't make a sound.

I leans to Sal and whispers low,
'I'll bet the boy's forgot it'
When off he hauls with both his fists,
And golly! how he swat it.

The music sort of rambled on
For minute after minute;
I would have liked it better
If there'd been some singin' in it.

Towards the end all got goin'
Such an awful pace!
It got most as excitin'
As a motorecycle race.

Then Ossip throws up both his hands,
I knew the race was won:
He'd come in several lengths ahead
Before the piece was done!

Then Toski comes in second,
Looking grouchy as you please,
The music wasn't much,
But Ossip sure could claw them keys!

The mob all seems to like it;
They applauded long and loud.
I guess the reason was
It was an educated crowd.

And then I glances at my watch,
It said fifteen to ten;
I says to Sis: "let's beat it, kid,
Before they play again."

Perhaps this high-brow music
Aint exactly up my alley.
Some folks can have their symphonies,
But give me Rudy Vallee!

C. O. GRAY DIES AT ORGAN IN GREENEVILLE, TENN., CHURCH

Charles Oliver Gray, Jr., died of a heart attack while playing the organ March 28 in the First Presbyterian Church of Greeneville, Tenn., where he was head of the music department at Tusculum College.

Mr. Gray, a son of Charles Oliver Gray Sr., president of Tusculum from 1908 until 1931, received a bachelor of arts degree at Tusculum in 1917 and then went to Yale, where he earned another B. A. and a bachelor of music degree in 1922.

Professor Gray continued his studies at the Institute of Musical Art, now the Juilliard School of Music in New York, and then studied Bach at New York University and musicology at Columbia. He was the composer of Tusculum's alma mater song.

Mr. Gray was 60 years old. He leaves his widow, two daughters and two brothers.

NIES-BERGER MARKS TENTH ANNIVERSARY IN BROOKLYN

Edouard Nies-Berger marks his tenth anniversary as organist and choirmaster of the Church of the Messiah and Incarnation in Brooklyn, N. Y., May 1. Mr. Nies-Berger plays a large Austin organ of four manuals and directs a choir of sixteen voices at that church.

Besides Mr. Nies-Berger's church activities he is conductor of the Nies-Berger Chamber Orchestra and co-editor with Dr. Albert Schweitzer of the Bach chorale preludes, to be published by G. Schirmer. Mr. Nies-Berger recently made recordings for the Concert Hall Society. In January he appeared as soloist with the Boston Symphony. His compositions have been published by J. Fischer and H. W. Gray and a set of orchestral arrangements will be issued by G. Schirmer in the near future.
